MOSCOW, Aug. 1.—Heavy fighting throughout the night on the fronts facing Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev was announced by the Soviet high command today. "Last night," said the new war communique, "Soviet troops continued fighting the enemy in the directions of Novorzhev, Smolensk and Zhitomir."

"The air force, cooperating with the land force, dealt blows to enemy mechanized infantry and artillery units and bombed motor truck columns."

"During the night waves of German raiders attempted to attack Moscow again but Soviet officials proclaimed the attack a failure. The raid occurred while Harry Hopkins, American lease-lend coordinator, held another two-hour conference with Premier Josef Stalin."

Planes Dispersed

An official announcement today said the attacking German planes were dispersed before reaching the city and that only two bombers succeeded in penetrating the defenses of Moscow proper. These craft dropped a small number of incendiary bombs.

A 1916 model roadster which successfully passed state inspection yesterday was driven to The News office by its owner, Harry Bradley, Wilmington avenue extension. "Just to show it can still go," it has been driven 16,422 miles.

Pa News noticed a couple of obviously locked-out men prying at the door of a car in front of The Castle Hotel, Thursday afternoon, surrounded by a crowd of curious passers-by. License plate, Florida. That's a long way from home to lose your car keys.

July's precipitation came near to setting a record of some kind. Over seven inches of rain fell during the month, the most for any month in some time.

Survey of the result of Wednesday night's terrific storm show that many cornfields throughout the county were laid low. Oats which had not yet been harvested, were also badly affected.

With the approach of Old Timers Day, many old time relics and pictures of pioneers are beginning to make their appearance in store windows of the city. On the South Side, merchants are beginning to display these articles prominently. One store on Long avenue is showing a picture of old time school teachers, back in 1886, when F. M. Bullock was superintendent of the district.

Report Plan Of Action Has Been Agreed Upon To Meet Jap Aggression

By KINGSBURG SMITH
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—An understanding has been reached between the United States, Great Britain, the Netherlands East Indies and China concerning action to be taken in the event of further Japanese aggression in the southern Pacific, informed sources disclosed today.

Details of the four-power understanding are being kept secret, but it is understood to provide for a drastic strengthening of economic sanctions against the Nippon empire as well as for the mutual use of military and naval bases in case any one of the western powers become involved in war with Japan.

To Tighten Economic Screws
Discussions are now underway between the United States and Britain concerning plans to tighten the screws of economic pressure on the Japanese if they move into Thailand. These plans were believed to have been discussed at a White House conference late yesterday between President Roosevelt and British Ambassador Lord Halifax. Enforcement of a complete Anglo-American economic embargo against Japan is being considered.

There is no indication that the administration will voluntarily yield to the popular Taft compromise, and others, but it is conceded that their strength will postpone a final vote.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—A new outbreak of anti-Japanese violence rocked Shanghai today, killing nine persons and injuring 40.

The city was thrown into turmoil when an agent of the Chungking regime tossed a bomb at persons participating in a lantern parade in celebration of the Japanese sponsored Nanking government.

The blast blew up the bomb-thrower and eight others and wounded 40 more persons. It occurred half an hour before the marchers were scheduled to begin a four-hour parade through the western district of Shanghai and threw the parade into a panic.

West Point Will Reach New York City During Day

Bringing American Consuls Expelled From Germany
And Italy

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The United States naval transport, West Point, was scheduled to arrive in New York today bearing American consuls expelled from Germany and Italy and other Axis-dominated countries after President Roosevelt ordered consular representatives of those countries from the United States.

The West Point, formerly the luxury liner America, was scheduled to dock about noon. The vessel thus completes a round trip to Lisbon, Portugal, to which port it carries the ousted German and Italian consular representatives.

Included among the 380 passengers are 84 American consular and diplomatic officials; 116 consular clerks and non-career vice-consuls; 19 American ambulance drivers who survived the sinking of the Egyptian Steamer Zamzam; and three of four Americans freed by Germany in a trade for four Germans arrested in the United States.

These powers, members of the house and senate banking committees explained, would permit Mr. Roosevelt to halt virtually all credit, to prevent people from buying automobiles or other commodities on the installment plan, and even to stop, if he wished, personal $5 loans between individuals.

This comprehensive section of the proposed bill, as well as another one which grants control over agricultural prices, are the two provisions which members said are holding up formal introduction and speedy consideration of the measure.

A lengthy heated closed-door conference between the present price committee members and the banking committee was held today.

Retires To Private Life Today

—Resigned Post In Governor's Cabinet

Done with the official life of Harrisburg for the time at least, Captain Roger W. Rowland, former Secretary of Property and Supplies in the cabinet of Governor Arthur H. James is home today, back in private life. Captain Rowland's resignation as secretary took effect Thursday, July 31, and he left Harrisburg Thursday night for New Castle.

He was appointed as Secretary of Property and Supplies by Governor James just before the inauguration ceremonies and has served since. Pressure of private affairs had him on the verge of resigning at least twice before but he was prevailed upon to stay. This time he convinced Governor James that his duties as president of the New Castle Refractories company demanded his presence in New Castle, and reluctantly the governor agreed to the resignation.

Today Captain Rowland is back at his desk in the Refractories office in the Seventh Ward.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—German raiders attacked Moscow again during the night and also hammered Russian troop concentrations and rear communications in the Kiev and Smolensk areas of the front, according to an official Berlin announcement today.

Simultaneously a war bulletin from Chancellor Hitler's headquarters stated:

"Battles on the eastern front are progressing favorably. German planes during the night bombed military installations at Moscow."

"Editor's Note, Moscow announced that no military objectives were damaged during the air attack on the Soviet capital."

Military authorities in Berlin said the Luftwaffe destroyed 91 Soviet planes, shooting down 53 in air combats and wrecking 38 on the ground. At the same time a German military spokesman claimed the German-Finnish "steel trap" surrounding Leningrad will shut snarl at any moment.

Final Battle For Leningrad Near
Reports from German correspondents at the front asserted the struggle for final possession of Leningrad, key point of the Russian Baltic defenses, will be the first of a series of bloody battles for strategic strongholds along the entire 2,000-mile front line.

According to these dispatches the battles of "annihilation" behind the Stalin line are now nearing completion and the backbone of the Russian defense system is being "destroyed," Brozman added.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—President Roosevelt today described as "magnificent" the resistance Russia has put up against the German army. Authorizing direct quotation, he said:

"It is magnificent, and frankly better than any military expert in Germany thought it would be."

The Chief Executive's assertion was of double significance because it gave substantiation to the growing belief that the Russians have succeeded in stemming the German tide.

In the last 48 hours Mr. Roosevelt's own personal representative, Harry Hopkins, has arrived in Moscow, while in Washington the President yesterday had a lengthy conference with Lt. Gen. Philip Glikov, head of the Russian military mission to the United States, who arrived last week.

The question of the determined Soviet stand against the Nazis came up at President Roosevelt's press conference. The Chief Executive (Continued On Page Two)

Gas Station Owners Consider Effect Of 7 P. M. Closing Order

With fingers crossed, most New Castle gasoline suppliers were agreed today that "this section, for the time being, at least" will not be affected by Oil Co-ordinator Ickes' order shutting down Pittsburgh district gas stations, effective Sunday, from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. daily.

Distributors withheld definite comment, pending what appeared to be a mounting effort to have local outlets closed as a patriotic gesture to the government's new petroleum co-ordinator.

The Pittsburgh closing order, it was learned, came after the petroleum interests there had requested Washington to include Pittsburgh and its immediate territory under the general eastern seaboard ban.

Agreement Here Possible
The local distributors, in most cases, were of the opinion that a closing agreement here might be reached "at any hour." But that was only individual opinion and represented no official action.

The order applies in or east of the Appalachians in Pennsylvania, or in such an additional marketing area in that state where any substantial part of fuel supplies are either produced in Pennsylvania or shipped in from any point east."

Branch offices of some of the larger companies were "standing by" for orders, but at noon no word had come.

Most distributors minimized the effect a closing order here might have on local employment, for it was said that the action would bring about a "doubling up" to handle the rush which would obviously develop during a limited gas-buying period.

In the larger cities the prospective employment jolt gave some concern to the oil concerns.

By Saturday, one of the distributors declared, "some definite word" should be ready—and that's just about where the matter stood this noon.

In Pittsburgh this afternoon a conference of leading petroleum executives is expected to decide just what area constitutes "Pittsburgh and its immediate territory," and it is believed that that decision may clarify things here.

Gas Blackout To Hit States' Revenue

Foresee Drop In Gas Taxes

New England States Expect Revenues Will Be Cut Sharply

MANY EMPLOYEES MAY LOSE JOBS

(International News Service) BOSTON, Aug. 1.—With voluntary night "blackout" of gasoline stations in the 16 states of the eastern seaboard effective Sunday, tax officials estimated today that the six New England states would lose approximately $5,000,000 in gasoline tax revenue.

State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long estimated the "blackout" would cost Massachusetts alone about $1,500,000 in taxes. "The loss will have to come out of real estate taxes," Long said.

This is in spite of the fact 1941 was to have been a banner year for the state's gasoline tax collections. The normal gasoline tax receipts for Massachusetts this year were estimated at more than $21,232,000 by the commissioner.

Union officials expressed fear that many thousands of gasoline station attendants would lose their jobs because of the night closing plan. It was estimated 10,000 men may lose their jobs in Massachusetts alone. Frederick H. Burke, executive secretary of the New England Gasoline Dealers Association, however, said "very few" attendants would be thrown out of work because heavier daytime business would result in shifting many night workers to day shifts.

REPORT PLAN OF ACTION TO MEET JAP AGGRESSION

Japan if that nation sends its armed forces into Thailand also has been discussed by both governments. Grave fears prevail in official quarters in Washington that a Japanese move into Thailand would represent the final preparatory step for a back-door attack on Singapore or an attempt to occupy the Dutch East Indies.

Develop Airfields

The British are working day and night to develop airfields and otherwise strengthen their defenses in the Malay Peninsula against any overland attack on Singapore from Thailand.

Official quarters in Washington believe Great Britain will consider itself immediately at war with Japan if the Japanese attack the Dutch East Indies.

The British, it was said, probably would rush warplanes and submarines to the Netherlands possessions. The islands that compose the Dutch East Indies are considered ideal for submarine hide-outs. The Dutch according to the latest official reports received in Washington, now have approximately 80,000 troops under arms as well as some 200 modern warplanes. Most of the latter are American built but a few are German Messerschmitts.

American Aid Sure This government also has assured the Netherlands that American aid will be forthcoming immediately if the Dutch Pacific islands are attacked but the nature and extent of such aid is a defense secret.

One bright spot in the far eastern picture was the prompt manner in which Japan acted to the satisfaction of this government, the Tutuila incident.

The bombing of the American naval gunboat at Chungking by Japanese warplanes was considered a closed incident by this government following Tokyo's speedy action in apologizing, offering to pay full indemnity for the damage caused by the Tutuila and promising to take concrete and detailed measures to prevent a recurrence of such incidents.

Formal assurances to this aspect were given to Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles by Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura. The Japanese envoy claimed in behalf of his government that the bombing of the gunboat was purely accidental.

After conferring with President Roosevelt Welles said the American government considered the incident closed.

President Andrew Johnson was the originator of the phrase describing presidential tours as "swings around the circle." In August, 1866, he said, "We are swinging around the circle."

Schools. J. L. Moser, who is writing teacher in the schools, Principal J. P. Hervey, and assistant principal George Morgan are also shown in the picture.

Sparrows behave the same in Pittsburgh as they do in New Castle. Thursday afternoon, the end of an ice cream cone shell had been dropped on the plaza outside a large ice cream establishment, north side, Pittsburgh. Soon it was attacked by about a dozen house sparrows. This lasted for a few minutes, when suddenly one of the "spatsies" grabbed the shell, and away he sailed, followed by his competitors in hot pursuit. He was all for himself.

If the 7 p. m. gas station closing order becomes effective in the New Castle and Lawrence county district there will be a lot of blackouts on streets and highways of the district at night. Most gas stations play an important part in lighting up streets and highways these days.

Word has been received by State Senator James K. McQuiddy from International President Brown, of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, that as a defense measure, all electrical workers employed on defense projects will receive only time and a half for overtime work, instead of double time, to which they are entitled on Saturdays and Sundays.

SWEEEPING POWERS TO CONTROL CREDIT ARE CONSIDERED

Administrator Leon Henderson and Rep. Steagall (D) Ala., chairman of the house banking committee, broke up without any immediate agreement on these provisions though participants said they hoped everything would be worked out soon.

Advocates of all-out price control insist that without the power to limit credit—and that means purchases on the installment plan, bank loans, even personal loans—it will be impossible to ward off inflation if the nation's purchasing power under stimulus of defense buying keeps on rising.

Drastic Control Thus they have inserted the drastic credit control provision in the bill. Opponents, however, contend that such powers are more than needed at the present time and are apt to lead to a completely controlled economy in this country.

The measure provides that agricultural price ceilings may be set, provided they are not below farm parity prices. This brought forth an immediate howl from legislators from farm sections, who contend that parity prices were never meant to be an agricultural maximum, but only a fair minimum.

One other provision of the closely guarded bill it was learned, would drastically limit the control over rents. Rent ceilings could be set only in overcrowded areas, and only after 60 days notice, and only for housing accommodations which prior to Aug. 31, 1940, rented for $15 a room or less.

In other words, there would be no control over rents for any house or apartment of two rooms or more which rented a year ago for more than $30 a month.

Other sections of the bill would: Empower the president to set general price ceilings, "taking due consideration of the prices prevailing for such commodity on June 30, 1941," but not necessarily frozen as of that date.

Grant wide powers to regulate speculation, buying, selling or hoarding.

Create a three-man federal court to hear complaints.

HEAVY FIGHTING ON THREE FRONTS MOSCOW REPORTS

ber of incendiary bombs which caused fires that were extinguished quickly.

Officials said there was no damage to military objectives.

Meanwhile the official war communiqué said fighting continued on the sectors protecting Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev and that "especially stubborn fighting developed in the direction of Smolensk, where our counter-attacks threw back the enemy with heavy losses."

Editor's note: An exchange telegram (British) dispatch from Moscow said it was learned from private Soviet sources that the Germans so far have launched 42 separate attacks against Smolensk, key defense center on the Napoleonic road to Moscow. According to this dispatch all these attacks have been repelled with heavy losses to the Nazis and the Soviet garrison is still holding the city.

Nazi Prisoners Taken

In the fighting around Smolensk, the war communiqué said, German prisoners and war materials were captured.

"Our air force, cooperating with the troops, attacked mechanized units and infantry," the communiqué said.

"Fifteen German planes were shot down in combat on July 30, while we lost eight planes."

"A flight of Red air force dive bombers attacked two German petrol ships in the Baltic. One ship sank and the other heavily damaged, escaped under a smoke screen."

"Nine Junkers-88 planes and three Messerschmitts were destroyed at an airfield deep in the rear lines of the enemy."

The newspaper Pravda, reviewing the war, said that German planes for a lightning capture of Moscow, Kiev and Leningrad have been frustrated and that entire crack Nazi divisions have been annihilated. The paper said vast quantities of German tanks, planes and technical material have been destroyed.

Nazis Apprehensive

"The German soldiers' naive confidence in easy victory has been undermined by the apprehensive of defeat sown in the hearts of the German people," Pravda added.

"Time has worked in favor of the U. S. S. R. The Soviet rebuff to the enemy is constantly growing in offensive strength and the striking power of German troops is greatly weakening on various sectors of the front."

"The enemy is now frequently compelled to shift from the offensive to the defensive."

Referring to severe counter-blow which it said the Red army is dealing out, Pravda stated:

"These partial successes are only the beginning of a chain of mighty blows which the Fascist hordes will still have to experience."

readily consented to direct quotation of his laudatory view of the fight put up by Stalin's army.

Awaits Hopkins' Return At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt revealed that he would hold a second estimate on lease-lend requirements in abeyance until Hopkins returns from Moscow.

Russia is not now included in the provisions of the foreign military aid bill. The President said the question revolves simply around Russia's present ability to pay.

The inference was that if the Stalin government has the cash on hand, it will be impossible to furnish the Soviet aid under the lend-lease act.

When inquiry was made about the possibility that Hopkins might return to Washington by way of China, the President said he could give his press conference no information on that subject—that such movements, like the movements of ships and troops, came under the head of military information.

The President had no comment to make on the Far Eastern crisis, saying he had not as yet had time to study the dispatches this morning.

Termination of hostilities between Ecuador and Peru in their bloody boundary dispute was greeted by Mr. Roosevelt with extreme satisfaction. He said he had definite hopes that the dispute can be settled peacefully even if it takes some time.

BERLIN REPORTS NEW AIR ATTACK UPON MOSCOW

finely broken" in these gigantic engagements, in which about 11,000,000 men are fighting.

Red Army rear guards, it was claimed, are being harassed continually by the German air force and advanced panzer units to prevent the Soviets from making any further major stand against the Nazi attackers.

German military authorities declared the German forces now are pushing deep into Russian territory in preparation for the promised blitz drive to Moscow.

Red Armies Hang On

They admitted, however, that the Red armies are hanging on tenaciously "to the last man" rather than surrendering to the advancing Germans.

As an example of this, dispatches cited an instance in which a Soviet regiment was surrounded west of Lake Peipus on the northern sector of the front.

The regiment was moved down by mortar and machine gun fire when wave after wave of the Soviet troops charged over open fields in a desperate attempt to free themselves from the German trap.

Berlin officials said that with the anticipated fall of Leningrad Soviet naval power in the Baltic sea will be completely crushed.

The port of Libau already is in German hands and the Hango Peninsula is under constant shelling by the Finns, it was claimed. In addition, authorities said, the Russians have been forced to abandon Baltic port.

With the loss of Kronstadt and Leningrad, it was asserted, the Soviets will "cease to exist as a Baltic naval power."

The Berlin radio said that after last night's raid on Moscow nume-

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'T ARGUE OVER TASKS WITH CHILD

We parents must expect some bickering between children. But this annoyance can be reduced, and to some degree at least, prevented.

A mother wrote: "I have two girls, 9 and 7. They each have their pan of dishes to dry after the evening meal. They feel one has more to wipe than the other. If one gets a larger piece of cake or gets to go somewhere or gets something new to wear, it is resented and questioned by the other one. Sometimes I have extra tasks when they first come in from school and then one feels she has more to do than the other one. They both have lots of time for reading, playing the piano and drawing.

"How can I stop their bickering and quarreling?"

Don't Explain

Stop trying so hard to make their tasks, gifts or privileges equal. Once you have made an assignment, carefully planned, or given each something or granted each a privilege, make no effort at all to explain that you have been fair. The more you try to explain the more likely one or the other supposes you are partial. Let them learn from experience that in the long run they are treated equally, being sure in your own mind that they are.

Don't divide those dishes to wipe. Let them take turns wiping all of them. Pretty soon, indeed, each should take her turn washing and wiping all the dishes alone. Mark on the calendar a month ahead when each shall have her turn, removing all doubt. Except for illness, let neither escape the job.

Regular Tasks

Plan regular jobs, not many, for each to do after school. Except for serious emergencies, assign no unexpected jobs. Hope to win each to volunteer occasionally. When she does, show appreciation. Never compare one with the other.

As far as possible don't let their duties or possessions overlap. See that each respects the other's ownership, not using the other's things without her permission. You be policeman to enforce these rules. Set some penalties and carry them out. You might not get immediate results but you will eventually if each child learns that a definite punishment will follow misconduct.

You are right in training them to help about the home. Add more regular duties only as good habits of performing the present ones have been developed.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. What do you consider a good way to keep more young people away from road houses and public dance halls?

A. Provide a fitter place for them to dance. Welcome them and their young friends to your home for good times.

A score of persons in New Philadelphia, Ohio, received bills marked "Paid in full" from Dr. Elliott D. Moore.

With each receipted bill was a note from the 77-year-old physician, which explained that he was retiring after practicing in New Philadelphia for fifty years.

"I want to make a clean break," said the notice. "I want to feel free to live as long as I like when I'm tired."

And isn't that about all the reward there is to a long, faithful life of service?

To be able to lie down in the sun, and rest—with no creditors, no debtors to worry about—feasting on memories and the job well done! Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

As we understand Congress, all citizens must share in defense, but those making under $2,500 aren't citizens.

Americanism is a spirit, and some of Pioneer stock have less than others who still speak with an alien accent.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:14. Sun rises tomorrow 4:59.

During the session of the last Pennsylvania legislature, 2,460 bills were introduced and only 497 were passed. Maybe too many were passed, at that.

How big are we? Meaning Americans. Are we big enough for the job that is being cut out for us? We are pretty cocky when talking of our resources and our capacity for doing big things. But boasting isn't the answer to questions.

There are many people who cannot go on a vacation because other people want to go.

German scientists resent the theory that man descended from the ape. So far as known, the ape is satisfied.

THE BREAKING POINT

Junior (hard at work on his homework): "Say, daddy, what is dew?"

Daddy: "The rent, the car payment, and a note at the bank."

Repeatedly it is being said that America is humanity's hope. If it is kept up long enough, Americans may believe it.

Now we are told that the well dressed women will wear spats this fall. Well, that will be sumpin'.

America has enough stagnant wealth tied up on used car lots to equip an army.

Said the client to his lawyer, "I trust your fee is nominal."

And when he got the lawyer's bill it was just that—pne-nominal.

A Mormon once said that being married to several women wasn't so much of a pleasure, but it was often just a means of saving servants' wages.

A couple of movie actors were married at Palm Beach, Fla., dressed in shorts. They could have been married at a nearby movie camp without any clothes on.

In striving to know oneself there is always the temptation to take advantage of any doubts that may arise.

She: "Well, meet my girl chum. This is a case of where a friend needs a feller."

A wholesome atmosphere is a great thing to be in. Of course there also are a lot of other wholesome things that are enjoyed.

Taxes without end are not so bad if for the purpose of self-protection, in which case they should be taken for granted and shared by all to the limit of means.

There is too much jitters in this world now. It just has to wear itself out.

Wife: "So your client was acquitted of murder? On what grounds?"

Lawyer: "Insanity. We proved his father had spent five years in an asylum."

Wife: "But he didn't, did he?"

Lawyer: "Yes. He was a doctor there but we had no time to bring that fact out."

Movie director claims men are more vain than women because more males refused to state their age on a questionnaire. Aw, that just means more men refused to lie about it.

The director of the zoo was away on a short vacation when he received the following note from the chief assistant:

"Everything all right except the chimpanzee seems to be pining away for a companion. What shall we do until you return?"

Where there is no sharing of responsibility there is no sacrifice for the cause.

Good Taste

"Isn't it a definite bore for mothers to praise excessively their own children—especially unfavorably comparing other women's children with their own superior offspring?"

—W. E.

Answer: Mother-love remains a divine attribute until tainted by mother-jealousy. Too often I have had to note the faint praise or unfeeling criticism bestowed upon other women's children by mothers fostering an inferiority complex concerning their own when the former are conspicuously superior. "Yes, Betty is a lovely girl but..." is the stereotyped retort of the woman afflicted with mother jealousy. And a psychic is not needed to conjure up from the victim's mind the completion of the comment: "...but not as lovely as my Gladys."

Question: I have been asked to receive at a debut. It is to be a dance at a country club. What are my duties and what should I wear?

—Dorothy.

Answer: Whether the dance takes place in the afternoon or in the evening, the debutante and all who "receive" with her should wear evening dresses without hats, unless it is a garden party when they all wear garden clothes. Asking you to receive with her is merely a formality. You need not stand in the receiving line, and you have no duties other than through your own gaiety, contributing to the success of the party.

Question: I am engaged. My fiancée has asked me to his house to spend a week. His mother also sent an invitation. Would it be correct for me to accept?—M. J.

Question: Indeed, yes you may correctly go, since you are engaged and his mother will be there. And in addition, you really should go and meet the family.

Question: I have been invited to a barn dance. What is it and what should I wear?—Betty.

Answer: It is a dance given in a club, at home or anywhere else (not necessarily in a barn) at which guests dress like farmers in overalls and large straw hats.

A BOY AND HIS DAD

Show me a father with faith in his son.

And I'll show you a pair worth while.

Although they be common as any one.

And little for show and style.

The man for the boy, like a pal for a pard.

And the boy for the man the same.

With each for the other that fine regard.

Which only themselves can name.

Away with the parent whose all-work mind.

Has never an hour for play—

I'm praising the dad of a better kind.

Who lives in a nobler way:

The father who sees in that son of his

Is

Which makes them the chums they are.

When fifty, or near it, and ten-years-old,

In fellowship's house have dwelled,

They've gathered more treasures than all the gold

That ever a kingdom held;

A heart running over with pride and joy.

A face that was born to smile—

Yes, show me the dad who believes in his boy,

And I'll show you a pair worth while.

A line from Psalms that is being overlooked: "O let the nations be glad and sing for joy."

IN A WHIRL
A man somewhat under the influence of good cheer attempted to pass through the revolving doors of a department store. Each time he entered he made the complete round and found himself in the street again. After several unsuccessful attempts, he sat down on the sidewalk to work things out.

A moment later a young man walked rapidly up the street and went in. The door went around and a young lady came out. The inebriate was puzzled.

"What gets me," he muttered, "is what the devil did he do with his other clothes?"

A good time to be careful is during very hot weather. Doing as little as possible or nothing at all is very good.

No salesman ever tries to tell his prospects how a car will look in a wreck.

Money wasn't so necessary in the old days. Thirsty people reached for a dipper instead of a nickel.

Very few people like to pay rent but they do not dislike it enough to try to get a home of their own.

Example of "unity": If wages and farm prices go up 10 per cent, that is justice. If manufacturers increase prices 5 per cent, that is sabotage.

Things are so crowded in Washington, it may yet be necessary to fire the commissions that have been idle since others were appointed to do their work.

What's What At A Glance

Axis Powers Having Troubles At Home
Dr. Frank Bohn Seeks American Help
Would Have United States Enter War

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Now and then Washington gets a hint, from one apparently pretty reliable source or another, indicating that all isn't entirely well with the Axis right in Herr Hitler's and Signor Mussolini's own countries.

Dr. Frank Bohn ought to be a fairly good authority. He's a German-American. There's been plenty of talk of Nazi binds in the United States, but Dr. Bohn isn't a member of any of 'em. The organization he belongs to and is chairman of, is the German National Congress for Democracy, and he's appealed to friends of his in Uncle Sam's government for an immediate Yankee entrance into the war against Hitler.

War against Hitler he says wouldn't be war against the Germans—not against a majority of 'em, anyway. While Adolf undoubtedly does have a certain number of genuine followers, the doc insists that a majority of the Fatherlanders violently hate him. Their difficulty is, he explains, that the minute one of 'em shows it, the Gestapo promptly "liquidates" him. However, if we'd physically pitch in, on the side of the democracies, the doc's convinced that the German majority he mentions would be so stimulated that they'd rise up en masse against the Fuehrer; that they'd be our out-right allies.

As for the Italians, the doc doubts that ANY of them are still faithful to the Axis; they simply are conquered, but the doc's sure they'd grab at the first good chance to tear loose from Berlin's domination.

Germany Tells Italy

Announcement of the recall of a number of our American news agencies' correspondents from Italy because the censorship's become so tight that there's no use in keeping 'em there any longer, gives considerable plausibility to this assertion. The point is that it wasn't the Italian government which did the tightening. It was the German government, which has taken charge of Signor Mussolini's censorship. It wouldn't seem as if Benito himself would fancy having Adolf confiscating his own personal censorship. To say the least, it must be humiliating to him.

The Fuehrer also probably bosses him around in other respects.

It's a little humorous to have Senator Burton K. Wheeler denouncing the Washington administration's alleged maneuverings in the direction of out-and-out warfare against the Axis, and then to have a German-American, like Dr. Bohn, clamoring for us to get into it against the same "totalitarian aggression."

The doc's scheme includes encouragement of German and Italian democrats to organize "governments in exile" here.

It isn't altogether clear why they can't do it without any particular encouragement, if they choose to. Most of the small, Nazi-occupied democracies have such exiled governments, and there's no especial objection made to 'em by the various countries that they're exiled in. Asking us to go to war is a different matter, but an exiled government appears to be harmless.

Dr. Bohn's as much opposed to any American "lending to expectant peace" suggestion, from Axis sources as "President Roosevelt and Mayor LaGuardia are."

Hitler And Peace

Why Herr Hitler may be anxious for a spell of peace at the present juncture of course is quite understandable. If peace is made on the status quo, he'll have won. If war continues, he may lose in the end.

Which unquestionably would be his personal finish. Furthermore, it's perfectly conceivable that he wants time to rest while consolidating his conquests to date, after which, getting up a fresh head of steam, he can take the warpath again, when ready. And, finally, if Dr. Bohn is right about the volume of discontent he has on his hands at home, it's quite likely that Adolf knows it and fears it will break out on him unless he's careful.

The doc's objection to a present peace is equally obvious. His ideal is peace, but a democratic peace and his argument is that the quickest way to arrive at it is through Hitler's extermination, which will be postponed, at best, if the Fuehrer's given a rest period.

Mussolini in a manner fix than Hitler. Peace now won't find him a victor, but a loser. Yet he'll be worse licked if the rumpus goes on for he already is being eaten alive by Adolf and the longer the things lasts, the more of him the Fuehrer will devour.

WHAT THE HELLSKI!

Ed Ainsworth is a columnist, writing exclusively for the Los Angeles Times. How long he will be running an exclusive column for that paper depends upon whether or not he remains faithful to that newspaper or whether the offers from syndicates desiring his services become too alluring for him to resist.

He, in common with many of us, is wondering whether the administration is trying to make the world safe for Communism, or what? This invasion of Russia by Germany has caused a strange assortment of bedfellows among nations. England is not Communist; Russia is, and Russia has a great many Communist sympathizers within the United States, and yet England and the United States, under press of circumstances, strongly support Stalin in his efforts to stem the tide of Nazi invasion, and so Ainsworth writes the letter.

"Comrade Joe Stalin, The Tremblin Kremlin, Moscow, U. S. S. R.

"Dear Joe: What the helloski! We boys here in the U. S. have been doing just like you told us, sugaring old lady Perkins, buttering up Blabermouth Jakes, fouling oil lines in warplanes, getting up picket lines at defense factories and fooling all the suckers with our 'keep out of war, we're perfectly safe' and then, just after Linderbergh got through spouting in L. A., what happens: Adolf punches you in the breadbasket. Where do we get off atski? We've been so busy sabotaging everything and walking in the picket lines that we can't work very good, our arm muscles are flabby and our feet have corns. But now you say we gotta work 12 hours 7 days a week to make warplanes for the U. S., Britain and Russia. We're all mixed up. We can't even unplug some of the plugged-up oil lines in planes for Britain because we gotta rush in the factory and make more planes for Britain. Please keep us posted. We'll still have the oil-line plugs handy, just in case. And give us a little more warning next time, Joe. One of our best agents was going to shake hands with a Nazi and the Nazi had got the news first and socked him one in the kisser. What the helloski!

Railroad Men Make Demands

Unions Formally Present Requests For Pay Increases At Parley

RAILROADS WILL ANSWER MONDAY

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The 14 non-operating railroad unions on Thursday formally presented their demands for wage increases ranging from 30 to 35 cents an hour to the carrier committee in the current negotiations concerning a number of issues affecting the entire railway labor setup.

The nonoperating unions, after repeating their rejection of management proposals for working rule changes, presented a three-point program giving their reasons for the requested payroll boosts.

George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and a member of the union negotiating committee, asserted that the group was seeking increases because railway wages have been inadequate in relation to pay received by workers in other industries, because railroad wages have lagged behind the increases received by other workers since 1920 and because railroad employees have failed to participate in the economic progress of the country.

The wage demands include a proposed minimum of 70 cents an hour for union members to replace the present 36 cent minimum and increases of 30 cents an hour for other wage rates. The 800,000 members of the 14 groups now have a top minimum of 85 cents an hour for some skilled workers and Harrison said that the average pay is about 67 cents an hour.

He compared this figure with average hourly wages of $1.05 in the auto industry, 83 cents in chemical manufacture and 77½ cents in the lumber industry.

The railroads, who estimate that the wage demands by this group as well as proposals for paid vacations and the 30 per cent increase which is sought by the five operating brotherhoods will cost the common carriers $900,000,000 a year, were to take the union program under advisement.

Their answer will be presented Monday when the management committee will meet again with the nonoperating representatives.

The dispute between the roads and the operating group over proposed working rule changes regulating about 350,000 men, meanwhile, was placed before the national railway mediation board.

Some Information From Navy Must Be Confidential

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Secretary of the Navy Knox today ordered naval officers to keep the people of the nation fully informed as to activities of the U. S. navy, but he outlined four specific points of operation which are to be regarded as confidential.

Knox told a meeting of naval public relations officers, from stations throughout the country and the fleet, that while "the people are entitled to full information" the following four types of operations are to be regarded as "confidential."

1. Movement of all ships.
 2. Technical secrets.
 3. Strength of fleet units.
 4. Productive capacity of plants.
- "The first line of defense in this very dangerous era of world affairs is the navy," Knox told the officers at a luncheon, "and I include very definitely air power as a part of seapower."

State Secretary Of Agriculture Advises Farmers

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—At a time when agriculture is faced with increased costs and labor shortages as result of the national defense program, farmers should make every effort to rid their herds of disease and parasites, Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light today observed.

"Improper management which permits the prevalence of disease and parasites among animals, will cause untold hardship for the farmer and may lead to financial disaster," Light said.

"Among the necessary courses to be followed in eliminating disease from the herds are the calving of animals away from the main herd, preventing cattle from coming into contact with a neighbor's cattle which might not be cleared of infection, and the proper disposal of refuse."

Another cause of worry to dairy farmers is the prevalence of mastitis, a disease affecting cows, noticeable by the appearance of clumpy, stringy or flaky milk.

A source of satisfaction, however, was a report released by the federal-state survey which predicted an increase in pig production for Pennsylvania this year.

Swine have decreased sharply in the state since 1939 while from December 1, 1940 to June 1, 1941, a reduction in the number of pigs saved decreased from 409,000 to 353,000.

It was pointed out, however, that consumption of food is increasing and that an upturn in the pig raising cycle is desired as a defense measure.

The entire foliage of an infested tree may be killed twice in a season which considerably reduces the vigor of the tree, and in some instances causes its death. Since these pests have already done most of their damage, control measures during the current year are not advisable.

In the case of valuable shade trees, the beetle can be controlled by spraying during the month of May with arsenate of lead at the rate of four pounds mixed in 50 gallons of water.

Mont Richards Ends Rail Police Service

Veteran Pennsy Sergeant Today Is Retiring From Active Duty

Sergeant Mont Richards of the local Pennsylvania railroad police force, a veteran of 25 years' service with the Erie & Ashtabula division, retires from duty today.

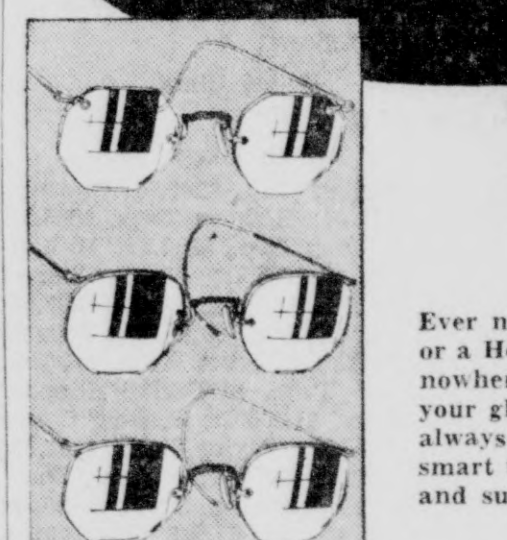

For a month and a half Richards has been off duty as a result of injuries suffered in an auto crash. He is convalescing nicely now, as is Mrs. Richards, who also sustained injuries in the accident.

Most of Richards' police service, the division office said, has been on the Erie-Pittsburgh branch of the E. & A. division. He is well known here and resides at 407 West Washington street.

British Land Planes Aid In Atlantic War

Craft Are Used To Escort
Convoys And Patrol
Sub AreasAMERICAN SHIPS PROVE USEFUL

By JACK CAPON

International News Service Staff

Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Land planes are playing an increasingly prominent part in the vital Battle of the Atlantic.

The term Coastal Command seems to indicate a command controlling flying boats and seaplanes only, but the present day struggles around the shores of Britain, Coastal Command controls many more land planes than waterborne craft.

In the Battle of the Atlantic, flying boats have the greatest range of action and initiate the air escort and protection by meeting the convoys far out in mid-Atlantic.

Multi-engine landplanes daily escort convoys, patrol submarine areas and attack enemy air raiders.

Both British and American built aircraft participate in this work.

One American plane, the Lockheed

Hudson, has particularly distinguished itself under Coastal Command control in the Atlantic air war.

First Rate Workmanship

It is in the use of these land planes over the Atlantic that British and American workmanship stands out. Rarely is a landplane forced to alight in the sea due to engine or structural trouble.Although the flying boat has a greater range of action and usually possesses a much heavier armament, the landplane is faster and more maneuverable.Coastal Command landplanes at present operating over the Atlantic can easily out-manuever any enemy raider and shoot it down.

The flying boat, having a larger fuselage, has additional comforts.
The pilot is able to walk aroundand stretch his legs and the crew can smoke. Ten hours or more in a landplane without smoking andscarcely moving from one seat, proves cramping, doubly so, flying over a monotonous expanse of sea.

Charges Japanese

In West Coast Plot

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Chairman Dies (D) Tex., of the house

American activities committee, announced that his agents have uncovered "a gigantic sabotage plot

by the Japanese in California."

Dies said he had evidence that Japanese officers and operators of fishing boats had entered into the plot, which he said had been discussed by them at Terminal Island,

Los Angeles Harbor, California.

"We have witnesses who actually participated in discussions of proposals to convert Japanese fishing boats into torpedo ships and to get ready to blow up defense installations on the west coast," Dies declared.

The Texan said, however, that his committee would hold off in making details public "until the Federal Bureau of Investigation has a chance to clean up the matter."

Willkie Declines To Debate Issues

Labels Elwood, Ind., Affair As "Merely Publicity Stunt"

(International News Service)

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Aug. 1.—Declining an invitation to debate the "war issues" with Norman Thomas,

Socialist candidate for president in 1940, Wendell L. Willkie today labeled the whole affair as "merely a publicity stunt."

The invitation—accepted promptly

by Thomas—was extended by George

M. Bonham, mayor of Elwood, Ind.,

Willkie's native city and the scene of his acceptance of the Republican presidential nomination last summer. An anti-war rally in Callaway

Park Sunday was to have served as the setting for the debate.

"I came to Indiana on a vacation,"

Willkie said. "I'd like to have that vacation, without publicity-stunt interruption. My views on the foreign policy of the United States are well known. I have stated them many times.

"There are no such things as war issues in the United States today.

Everybody would like to have peace, but we will not have peace merely because we wish it."

Senator Lucas

Named For Post

To Be Chairman Of Audit And

Control Committee

Of Senate

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The senate on Thursday confirmed the selection of Sen. Lucas (D) Ill., to be chairman of the important audit and control committee which passes on senate investigation expenditures.

Lucas had been chosen for the chairmanship by an informal poll of the senate Democratic steering committee, after it failed to fill the chairmanship vacancy Wednesday at a meeting.

In choosing Lucas who succeeds

Sen. Byrnes (D) S.C., appointed to the supreme court, the steering committee passed over Sen. Tydings

(D) Md., who was next in line for the chairmanship under the senior-

Five Thousand Will Lose Jobs In New York City

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Five thousand and gas station attendants will be thrown out of work in New York

City by the ban on night gasoline sales, Walter Burke, president of the

A. F. of L. Union of Gas Station and Parking Attendants, said Thursday.

"I don't know what's going to happen when half the gas station men in the city have their jobs kicked out from under them," Burke said, "with our minimum weekly pay scale of $25, we're just about one step from relief now."

Committee Favors

Giving President

Seizure Powers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The house military affairs committee, by a vote of 14 to 4, Thursday afternoon approved a bill giving the president power to seize material needed for defense.

The compromise "draft property" measure was approved over Republican opposition, after under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson told the committee such powers were needed "in order to equip soldiers now in the field."

Chairman May (D) Ky., said he would ask for early house consideration of the bill, which already has passed the senate.

THREE RAILROAD EMPLOYEES KILLED IN WRECK

Buffalo Bound Train In Wreck

Engine Hits Truck Already Wrecked, On Grade Crossing At Watstown

PASSENGERS ESCAPE INJURY IN CRASH

(International News Service)
WATSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—The Pennsylvania railroad today launched an immediate investigation into derailment of the crack Buffalo flyer and the deaths of three employees at a grade crossing one mile north of Watstown.

The accident occurred at 1:30 a. m. EST, when the northbound express struck the wreckage of a truck transporting a power crane shovel that had been hit by an east-bound freight train en route to Altoona from Wilkes-Barre, officials said.

Three Instantly Killed
Almost instantly killed when the engine and four cars were derailed were Clarence K. Shaibley, Williamsport, road foreman of engines; F. E. Snyder, Northumberland, engineer and H. P. McHenry, Sunbury, fireman.

Joseph C. Gaudreault, Williamsport, freight trainman, and an unidentified passenger were treated at the Williamsport hospital for minor injuries.

Members of the freight crew were treated by physicians for minor injuries and sent home. They were L. C. Zindie, engineer; O. A. Long, fireman; J. C. Thomas, conductor; John Watson, flagman, and Patrick Murphy, brakeman, all of Tyrone.

Enroute To Buffalo
The train was en route from Washington, D. C. to Buffalo, N. Y., when it crashed into the wreckage at a speed of 45 miles an hour.

Immediately after the freight train struck the truck, Long attempted to halt the express but the engineer apparently failed to see the signals in the darkness. Only a few minutes intervened between the collision, officials said.

The truck burst into flames and was wedged between the baggage car of the passenger train and the freight engine.

Gasoline Industry Will Cooperate In Curtailment

Will Blackout Pumps From 7 P. M. To 7 A. M. As Requested By Ickes

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The gasoline industry in general today indicated that it would co-operate with the request of Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes for the closing of all gas stations along the Atlantic seaboard nightly from 7 p. m. until 7 a. m.

Agreement to cooperate in the blackout of gas pumps was based on the hope of bringing about a voluntary reduction in the consumption of gasoline to offset the threatened shortage of petroleum in the seaboard area.

Thousands of gasoline attendants, however, faced loss of their jobs because of the shutdown. Walter Burke, president of the Gasoline Station and Parking Attendants Union, local 917 of the A. F. of L. International Brotherhood of Teamsters, said he would protest to Secretary Ickes on the ground that the shutdown would force laying off of "at least one-third of the 10,000 gas station attendants in New York City."

Erie Young Man Gets Suspended Sentence—Fine

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Aug. 1.—Leon Baxter 21, held responsible for the death of Joseph Zitselberger, 39, with an air hose last July 5, today was given a suspended sentence and three months to pay court costs of $42.

District Attorney Burton R. Lamb pleaded for leniency for the youth and the court held that Baxter had committed a "careless, thoughtless act in fun, and that the resultant publicity and shame was punishment enough."

Baxter had applied an air hose to Zitselberger's body "in fun." Resultant internal hemorrhages caused the latter's death, police reported.

Bill Confronts Governor James For Second Time

Measure Once Vetted Is Again Before Governor In Different Form

SALES BELOW-COST COMPETITION HIT

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—For the second time during his term, Gov. Arthur H. James today was debating whether to approve a bill he had once before vetoed, outlawing "cutthroat" competition in the sale of merchandise. A decision is expected soon.

Backed by all the retail trade associations and chambers of commerce in the state, the measure, known as the "Unfair Sales Act", was approved by the legislature in a form designed to meet the governor's earlier objections.

This is the third bill enacted by successive legislatures to ban sales below-cost. A 1937 act was held unconstitutional by the state supreme court, while the governor vetoed another measure passed in 1939.

The present measure, which received the overwhelming support of legislators, only three voting against it, meets the objections of both the supreme court and the governor, according to its sponsor, Sen. John M. Walker (R) Allegheny.

It provides that the advertising or sale of wholesale and retail goods at less than cost is illegal if it is done "with the intent of unfairly diverting trade from, or otherwise injuring, a competitor, or with the result of deceiving any purchaser . . . substantially lessening competition . . . unreasonably restraining trade or tending to create a monopoly in any line of commerce."

The supreme court held the 1937 act invalid because it prohibited sales below cost regardless of injury or of the seller's intent.

Not Approved
The 1939 act remedied this, but Governor James found fault with it because it placed the burden of proving intent and injury upon district attorneys, a burden which the counties were not financially able to assume, the governor declared in his veto message.

The present act largely relieves district attorneys of that duty by providing that a merchant who feels he is being injured by "cutthroat" competition can go into a court of equity and ask for injunctive relief. The burden of proving that his competitor is violating the law is upon him.

The act also provides for criminal prosecution. Violators can be punished for disobeying a court injunction and upon conviction make themselves subject as well to fines of from $50 to $200, plus the costs of prosecution. In the event of failure to pay, they become liable to 30 days imprisonment.

Deputy Attorney General William M. Rutter, who drew up a legal opinion on the bill which was forwarded to the governor, said that one of the major purposes of the bill was to eliminate "lost leader" advertising and sales.

In defining the trade term "lost leader", Rutter explained that some merchants advertise nationally known and other products at less than the regular price.

"When a customer comes in to make a purchase, they try to sell him in addition some of their other products, using the 'lost leader' as a come-on," said Rutter.

The governor has received numerous letters urging him to approve or veto the measure and the governor's office revealed that "considerable pressure" is being exerted by interested groups.

The act does not apply to such bona fide liquidation sales, clearance goods, sales, charity bazaars and instances where the price of merchandise is made in good faith to meet competition.

Rules For Water Safety Given By Red Cross Expert

Red Cross Life Savers Will Be In Charge Of Girl Scout Camp Water Front

With the Girl Scout camping season nearly at hand, a Red Cross life saving instructor who will be in charge of the water front at the Girl Scout camp, listed numerous hints for water safety while swimming or boating.

An effort will be made at camp this year, beginning August 10, for the girls to secure their swimmers badge, according to Miss Helen MacLean, camp director. Only expert swimmers will be in charge of the boats at camp, and there will always be one expert swimmer with all boating groups.

Listed among the water safety hints were the following:

Always have a buddy or partner and stay together in the water.

To do any kind of exercise too long is harmful. It is better to do exercise a short length of time several times a day. Children will be benefited by 20-25 minutes in the water, after that the danger of cold-exhaustion, heat, etc., must be considered.

Sunburn should be prevented. Hats, dark glasses, shirts or towels thrown over the knees or shoulders when sitting along the bank, in boats, etc., on hot days will save a lot of discomfort.

Wait a while after eating to swim. Your digestive tract needs all your blood. Two hours is usually a safe time.

Everyone should try to learn to take care of herself in the water.

(a) Float on back and stand up in shallow water; swim in deep water.

(b) Tread water and swim.

(c) Swim any two strokes, changing from one to the other, this is restful. Form swimming is less tiring than the "pick-up" stroke.

(d) Jump in feet first and swim or dive in head first and level off. (The latter only when safety is known).

Long distance swimming is tiring, and unnecessary for enjoyment and safety. The length of a pool is sufficient distance for any girl, although a little longer distance, under supervision, will build up endurance.

Fire Companies Will Receive $4,560

State Refunds Will Be Sent To Lawrence County In Near Future

HARRISBURG, August 1.—Auditor General F. Clair Ross today approved payment of $446,625 in refunds from the fire insurance tax fund due relief associations of fire companies serving more than 1,000 municipalities throughout the state since early last year, and withheld by the governor.

Checks will be mailed as rapidly as they can be prepared, Mr. Ross said.

These payments—more than a year overdue as a result of transfer of $2,300,000 from the fire insurance tax fund to the general fund on order of the governor and the 1940 special session of the general assembly—have just been authorized by the governor as proceeds from sale of the commonwealth's latest series of tax anticipation notes make possible repayment of the transfer.

Sharing today's payments are 1,034 municipalities. Payments totaling $37,374, due 239 other municipalities, are now in preparation and will be paid shortly, while payments to still another 149 municipalities will be further delayed because of the failure of companies to make proper reports and the need of further audit and examination. Among payments are:

Gas Curfew To Start On Sunday

Gas Stations To Be Closed From 7 P. M. To 7 A. M. In Eastern States

HUNDRED THOUSAND STATIONS AFFECTED

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, August 1.—One hundred thousand gasoline stations in the eastern states today prepared to lock up their pumps every night in an effort to avert a shortage of gasoline.

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes announced that the stations will close nightly from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. along the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Florida, starting Sunday.

Stations throughout the area were said to be responding favorably to the effort of alleviating the situation, caused by the transfer of American oil tankers to Britain.

No individual stations were consulted in the restriction plan which was worked out with the East's major petroleum companies.

Many stations announced that the plan would not result in large scale layoffs for night workers as these employees will be put on different jobs in the daytime.

The shutdown will go into effect in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, the Peninsula of Florida, the District of Columbia, and all marketing areas in or east of the Appalachian mountains in New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia, "and such additional markets areas in said states where any substantial part of the motor fuel supplies is either produced or shipped into such areas from any point east."

Ickes said the action was taken because the public had not complied with his request to reduce gasoline consumption 33 1-3 per cent on a voluntary basis.

"Closing public filling stations at night is the least action we can take now and be realistic about our actual situation today," he said.

'Angel Of Ozarks' Voids $65,000 Gift

CARTHAGE, Mo., August 1.—Mrs. Emma C. Hummel, a shy little widow of 82, revealed as the "Ozark Angel" who gave away $15,000 last year, refused to say why she had dissolved a $65,000 trust fund she had established for three institutions.

Mrs. Hummel, who has lived here without ostension since the death of her husband 30 years ago, would only say that the trust fund "just wasn't right." She refused further comment except to deny that she also was the "Angel of Ava." This second Ozark angel made numerous small anonymous bequests to residents of Ava over a period of a year.

The gifts of Mrs. Hummel included $12,000 to the Burge hospital at Springfield; $1,200 to lift the mortgage on the Springfield American Legion building; $3,500 to the Carthage Christian church, and several smaller sums.

The trust fund, established in March, 1940, and dissolved last month, provided that Mrs. Hummel receive the interest from it for 10 years the Joplin Freeman hospital, the Mary E. Wilson Home for the Aged at Springfield, and the School of the Ozarks at Point Lookout in the Shepherd of the Hills country, were to divide the interest. After that the fund was to be dissolved with the three institutions sharing equally.

The dissolution order showed that the Freeman hospital and Springfield home received $5,000 each for relinquishing their rights to the fund. The School of the Ozarks refused to accept a cash consideration. Mrs. Hummel's husband was a lumber dealer.

How To Address Army Men In Maneuvers In State Of Louisiana

(Special To The News)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 1.—The army postal service needs your help.

It's one thing for the post office of your town to find you since you're living in a settled community, but it's quite another story when the "boys are on the march" during the gigantic war games being held in the forests of Louisiana.

In requesting the co-operation of the public with the army, Headquarters, Third Army, asks that you picture a town of more than 250,000 people on the move and that will present a fair idea of the problems which confront the army postal authorities.

Detailed to the job of making it an easier task for your son, sweetheart, husband or brother to get your letters, Maj. H. B. Dean and Capt. John C. Ward (formerly postal inspectors), along with many assistants, have made plans for handling this mass of maneuver mail. These officers can not emphasize too strongly the necessity for co-operation by giving the complete and proper address on all letters.

Here's a proper example:
Private John Henry Jones
Company "G", 23rd Infantry
APO No. 2 (Second Division)
Ragley, Louisiana.

The complete address includes the rank, full name, company or similar unit, regiment and APO number of the addressee, as well as the name of the post office and state, and all mail should be so addressed. Correspondents should have their return address on each letter and the postage fully prepaid.

All mail should be directed to Ragley, Louisiana, unless you are writing to soldiers who have been stationed in Camp Beauregard, Camp Claiborne, Camp Livingston, Louisiana or Camp Shelby, Miss. If your letters have been going to that station, just continue to use that address, but all other mail that goes to the third army must be sent to Ragley, Louisiana.

Write Often

Headquarters, third army, has kept in mind that good mail service is a most powerful morale asset. Therefore, it is urged that the soldiers should be written often and that letters contain the correct address.

Army postal authorities urge relatives and friends not to send cake, fruits and perishable things in the mail, because packages are hard to handle when troops are on the move. It's best to delay the packages of food until the soldiers return to their home stations.

Here's another tip—don't send any special delivery mail—save the dime—special delivery service can't be rendered.

All soldiers in the third army have been notified to pass this information on to their correspondents, and for your information the army has set up army post offices (APO's) in the Louisiana maneuver area. Here's the key to the set-up:

APO No. 2 is the Second Division at Fort Sam Houston; APO No. 4, the Fourth Division at Fort Benning, Ga.; APO No. 31, the 31st Division at Camp Blending, Fla.; APO No. 36, the 36th Division at Camp Bowie, Tex.; APO No. 43, the 43rd Division at Camp Blending; APO No. 45, the 45th Division at Camp Berkeley, Tex.; APO No. 201, the First Cavalry Division at Fort Bliss, Tex.; APO No. 252, the Second Armored Division at Fort Benning, Ga.; APO No. 304, the IV Army Corps at Jacksonville, Fla.; APO No. 308, the VIII Army Corps at Camp Bowie, (home station), and APO No. 403 is the Third Army at San Antonio, Tex.

The other components of the third army which are at Camp Claiborne, Camp Beauregard, Camp Livingston and Camp Shelby will continue to receive their mail at their home station addresses. The APO's for these troops are:

APO No. 32, the 32nd Division; APO No. 34, the 34th Division; APO No. 37, the 37th Division; APO No. 38, the 38th Division; APO No. 305, the V Army Corps, and APO No. 403, the Third Army.

The opening date of the APO's will be August 1, and the offices will be closed about October 1.

Youth Describes Long Canoe Trip

Paddles Own Canoe 2,800
Miles On Trip Through 14 States

COST TRAVELER
BUT $2.50 WEEKLY

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, August 1.—Here's a story for the cynics who feel that the spirit of romance and adventure is a thing of the past... a story of a man, a canoe and a 2,800-mile trip from the green waters of the Hudson river to the blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

The man, Mate Louis Gagne, of the S. S. Viking of Woonsocket, related his thrilling adventures in a letter to Miss Mary Farley of Pittsburgh. On a Boy Scout good will tour, he paddled his 17-foot canoe through 14 states, on 10 rivers, creeks, canals, six lakes and countless bays at an initial cost of $150 and running expenses of $2.50 per week.

His trip, in the "Northlander," lasted six months. His letter, in part, said that:

"When I finally tied up the Northlander at Gulfport, Miss., there lay a tale in the upper Allegheny with my staunch little craft overcast in ice; of fighting sleet and snow storms from Lake Erie, to Memphis, Tenn., of bucking head winds in treacherous currents on the Mississippi and lower Ohio, and of participating in a spectacular sea drama at the end of my trip."

Found Eight Alligators
He also told of finding "eight alligators which had kept me company throughout the night, behind my tent one morning while deep in the bayou swamps of Louisiana, of having a school of porpoises nearly upsetting my canoe in Bay St. Louis, and later a shark playing tag with my canoe."

Gagne's biggest thrill was the part he played in the sea drama. At Bay St. Louis, he got off his canoe and sighted the auxiliary yacht Vixen, which was in distress. A report signed by R. F. Sumrell, U. S. C. G. commanding officer, C. G. C. Magnolia, stated:

"Gagne displayed good seamanship and the 21 passengers and two members of the crew of the Vixen doubtless owe their lives to his resourcefulness and knowledge of seamanship."

The youthful seaman said he put his boat in the greenish waters of the Hudson river at Troy, N. Y. He went upstream 352 miles, westward across New York state via the Erie canal and the Mohawk river to Buffalo on Lake Erie. He covered 65 turbulent miles on Lake Erie, to Barcelona, N. Y., where an eight-mile portage took him to the head of Lake Chautauque at Mayville, N. Y.

Route To Pittsburgh
Twenty-two miles of paddling and sailing took him across the entire length of the lake to Jamestown, N. Y. Three shallow creeks, Copenwago, Chadakoin and Casadaga, were followed to the headwaters of the Allegheny river at Warren, Pa. From there, it was 192 miles downstream of Pittsburgh, where the Monongahela and the Allegheny merge to form the mighty Ohio river.

He traversed the Ohio to its converging point with the Mississippi, and followed the lazy, muddy waters of the latter river to New Orleans, thence along the Gulf coast to Gulfport, Miss., the community that marked him to his adventurous trip.

Eleven Thousand Nurses Are Ready To Join Program

Storm Gives Change To Program Set For Y. W. Campers

Lights Go Out While The Evening
Meals Was Being Served

Sixteen campers were fired with ambition and enthusiasm following Wednesday morning's assembly period, for "Peneche" gave them full instructions for the evening's overnight hike. Their enthusiasm was directed into different channels, however, when the raindrops started to fall. Groups gathered around the dining room table in the afternoon to make decorations for Thursday's buffet supper ball. Dottie Wallace was busy in one corner sketching the dance numbers on one of the camp's most essential possessions, large sheets of wallpaper. Florence Badger displayed her artistic ability on wallpaper murals thumbtacked to the stage. The stapler was kept in action by Jane Pitzer as the cutters handed her parts for the center pieces.

The 6 o'clock storm brought an unusual, but delightful darkness for the evening meal. The electric lights were not in the mood for lighting, so the food could not be served or eaten very speedily. While the lightning flashed and the thunder rumbled, "Skipper" and "Kid" built a fire in the fireplace. The campers then joined in hearty singing until everything was back to normal.

The informality of the evening was thoroughly enjoyed. Groups gathered about tables to work big saw puzzles and play card games. "Twink" went about as official instructor. Others sat around the piano to enjoy "Pan's" music. "Polonaise" was one of the evening favorites. In between times the girls wandered outside to look at the sunset and double rainbow. All pronounced it a perfect evening.

The rain prohibited the archery contest scheduled for the evening from being held. The evening contestants will compete sometime before camp closes. Dottie Wallace, Joan Kishako and "Fefe" Pugh will represent the red team. The white team is sending Emily McIlenny, Pat Kradie and Sara McDaniel as archers. June Parsons, Rosemary Relf and Maxine Taylor will shoot for the blue team. Mary Ann Johnson of the younger campers came through with a bull's eye in the morning. All girls are showing improvement in form and hitting results.

"Skipper" and "Splash" have begun work on the water pageant, "The History of Swimming." It will be given Saturday at 2:00 for parents and friends. All girls will leave camp by 4:30 that day.

Black Walnut Trees Are Thrifty Growers In State

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, August 1.—That black walnut trees are thrifty growers when planted on favorable sites is evidenced by measurements recently made by the department of forests and waters, according to Charles E. Baer, deputy secretary. M. W. Nace, McConnellsburg, Fulton county, purchased 200 black walnut tree seedlings from the department in the spring of 1921, and planted them in a field near his home. The soil was fertile and had an under layer of limestone. Because of a large number of black walnut trees growing in the immediate vicinity, he decided to establish this plantation.

After 20 years about half the original trees remained, and these have an average height of over 35 feet. The average diameter at 4 1/2 feet from the ground is approximately five inches. Larger trees are six inches in diameter and 38 feet in height. Two of the trees produced six bushels of large-sized nuts during the fall of 1940.

Two plantations of black walnut trees in the Mont Alto state forest, Franklin county, are making very satisfactory growth. After 20 years of growth this stand was improved by the removal of many trees of inferior form. Thirty years after planting, the dominant trees have an average diameter of approximately nine inches and are 47 feet tall. A similar plantation was made in 1914, and measurements made 25 years later, showed that the volume consisted of 13 cords of wood per acre. Some of the trees were over five inches in diameter and about 36 feet in height.

Lawrence County Has 106 Divorces During Past Year

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—Led by Allegheny and Philadelphia counties, Pennsylvania recorded more than 9,000 divorces and annulments last year, the department of vital statistics announced today.

Allegheny had 2,035 and Philadelphia 1,842 of the 9,067 total shown by figures from 60 of the 67 counties. The total was 114 less than the 9,181 recorded in 1937—high for the four years covered in the survey, the first of its kind to be undertaken in the state.

There were 7,692 divorces and annulments in 1939—low for the period—and 7,921 in 1938. The survey, made at the request of the U. S. bureau of census, did not include figures from Adams, Centre, Clarion, Fayette, Franklin, Lackawanna and Somerset counties.

Figures for other counties included: Beaver, 126; Butler, 70; Lawrence, 106; Mercer, 105; Washington, 226 and Westmoreland, 241.

Shortage Of Cigarettes Is Chief Topic Of Discussion Among Residents Of London

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Scene: The cabaret setting up in "Up and Down" sophisticated war-time revue now playing at London's Saville Theater.

Action: Clever young actress Patricia Burke saunters across the stage in traditional cigarette girl attire, carrying an empty cigarette tray and chanting "No cigarettes, no cigarettes."

The gibe produces the loudest laugh of the evening, for there probably is not one customer out front who hasn't spent a fruitless hour before the show attempting to wrangle an evening's supply.

Cigarettes and the shortage thereof have got London by the ears. The subject has superseded invasion, the warm weather, and the Russo-German war as a favorite topic of conversation. The man with a full pack is an object of mingled envy and admiration; the tobaccoist who possesses a supply, even of the cheapest and worst brand, is in danger of being overwhelmed by eager customers.

cigar store owners who gradually are getting very fed up over the situation.

"Sorry, no cigarettes" notices which first were stuck on cigar store counters, are becoming much more terse. A cigar store in the famous Strand, hard by Fleet Street itself has a succinct "No cigarettes" sign hanging over the counter. And because beer is becoming scarce and some saloons sell out their supplies quite early in the week, one or two saloons have signs which proclaim "No beer or cigarettes." For one of the wangles adopted by smokers is to pub-crawl in the hope at least one pub will be found where cigarettes are obtainable.

Gags about the shortage are legion. A favorite subject for cartoonists and comic-strip artists is to depict a highwayman holding up a businessman, with the caption: "Your cigarettes or your life." A man drawing up his will is depicted as leaving "My last pack of my rare Player's cigarettes to my favorite nephew."

A dour victim of a stick-up says: "Take my diamond necklace, but please leave me my cigarettes."

Heart throb from this bureau, to the cigar store across the street which had our business in pre-war days:

"Gentlemen: For the love of Pete how about some cigarettes for American clients of pre-war days? We don't care what they are, as long as we get a smoke. Thinking you for past favors." The letter bore our collective signatures and went across with an office boy.

He returned empty-handed.

Freedom of the seas, new style: We demand the right to use the seas; if our people get killed, you have to expect such things in war time.

The Department of Commerce has devised instruments which automatically record ultraviolet radiation useful to human beings.

Nearly 10,000 Divorces In State During Year

Increase Is Shown Over Record Of Previous Year, Says State Department

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—There were 9,084 divorces and annulments of marriages in 60 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties last year, according to figures reported by county prothonotaries to the state health department's bureau of vital statistics.

Acting state secretary of health Dr. A. H. Stewart, said that vital statistics director, Tom E. Williams, had gathered the data through correspondence with prothonotaries during the past two months. The survey was made at the request of the federal bureau of census. Dr. Stewart explained, and is the first of its kind to be attempted by the state.

No figures were available for Adams, Centre, Clarion, Fayette, Franklin, Lackawanna and Somerset counties.

The total number of divorces and annulments for 1940 represents an increase of 1,392 in the state for the same number of counties over the previous year of 1939 when the total was 7,692. In 1938 the total was 7,921, and for 1937 a high mark of 9,198 was set for the four year period.

Of the two most highly populated counties covered in the survey, Allegheny with a total of 2,053 topped Philadelphia with 1,842 divorces and annulments in 1940.

ALUMINUM FOR DEFENSE

Atlantic City's life guards put on a drive which practically cleaned the beach of aluminum hair curlers with some of the loveliest bathing beauties as contributors. These pretty ladies don't seem to mind the loss a bit as Louise Septon, left, and Elaine Kruse hand curlers to life guard Charles Darcy.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

HARRISBURG, July 31.—Governor James has many major positions in the state government to fill, due to deaths and resignations, but he is not expected to take any action until at least next fall. Among the positions now vacant are those of secretary of health and secretary of property and supplies, two cabinet positions paying $10,000 a year. Also to be filled is a vacancy on the state liquor control board, another $10,000 a year position.

A new deputy secretary of commerce must also be named, along with an assistant director of the state game commission. If and when certain legislation is approved by the governor, these major appointments will also have to be made: Five $10,000-a-year parole commissioners, a civil service commission director at $7,000 to $9,000 a year, and two $5,000-a-year men to plan construction of the proposed "Rim Highway" in the Pocono mountains. Another $8,500 a year vacancy, that of member of the unemployment compensation board of review, may not be filled as the bill creating a state civil service commission eliminates this board.

The fiction that the legislature adjourned sine die on July 15, although it remained in session three days longer, is apparently to become an historical fact, as far as the records are concerned. The latest issue of the House history cites July 15 as the final adjournment date. The two houses set Tuesday as the final day of the session but found themselves unable to adjourn until Friday.

The judicial and municipal election campaigns will get under full way soon. One position on the state supreme court and one on the superior court provide the only statewide offices being filled at the

Japanese Luxury Liners Are Tied Up By Legal Action

Importers Of Part Of Cargoes Of Silk File Libel Actions Against Ships

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Two Japanese luxury liners, which had delayed their arrival in United States ports, were tied up under federal government orders at Pacific coast docks today, with little hope for early release.

The $15,000,000 Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Tatsumi Maru, docked at San Francisco after hovering off the Golden Gate for six days with 247 passengers and a $2,500,000 silk cargo, was seized by the U. S. marshal on libel actions filed by importers of part of her cargo and in addition was being searched by customs men on a mysterious tip that $1,000,000 in contraband United States currency had been smuggled aboard. At Seattle, the NYK Motorship Helan Maru was held on libel actions totalling $150,000.

The vessels had entered the ports on receiving assurances from the state and treasury departments that they would be allowed to discharge passengers and depart without unloading cargo. Until this assurance, Japanese shippers had feared complications under President Roosevelt's order freezing Japanese assets.

Yesterday, consignees and importers hastened to file libel actions in federal court, charging that the Japanese had violated their contracts by refusing to unload the cargoes.

Wires between the west coast and Washington were set humming, but state and treasury officials told the worried Japanese that their hands were tied—that the libel suits were in the jurisdiction of the justice department, which insisted on adhering to the orderly process of law.

Traffic Death Toll Climbing At Rapid Rate

Figures Show Fatalities Climb 17 Per Cent Over Same Period, 1940

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The nation's traffic death toll during the first half of 1941 climbed 17 per cent over the same period of 1940, a trend which the national safety council said today pointed toward an all-time high for the year.

The six-month total was 16,810 or 2,390 more than the 14,420 for the same 1940 period.

Unless the trend is checked, the council said, the 1941 annual count will shoot past 40,000, compared with the last year's 34,500. The last half of the year invariably brings the heaviest toll.

The council said the rise could be explained only in part by increased travel, for travel climbed only 12 per cent, while deaths rose 17. Consequently, the mileage death rate was five per cent higher than for the same period last year.

"This is especially disturbing," the council said, "since even in years when the traffic toll has increased, the mileage death rate has dropped."

The death increase was general throughout the nation, only nine states cutting their traffic fatalities during the first half of the year.

Rural areas had the greatest rise, 22 per cent, while towns under 10,000 population had an 11 per cent increase. The council said the only bright spot in the picture was the record of cities of 10,000 or more population which held the death increase to one per cent.

The toll continued to soar in June, the 11th successive month to show an increase. The June total was 3,050, 16 per cent above the 2,630 figure for June, 1940.

Memphis continued to head the death reduction list for cities of 250,000 or more population with a 63 per cent drop the first six months. Three cities of more than 250,000 population went through June without a motor vehicle traffic death.

The largest was St. Paul, population 289,800; the others were Birmingham, Ala., population 268,000, and Providence, R. I., population 253,600.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., population 86,200, continued to be the largest city in the nation with no fatalities for the year to date.

Current increases in traffic deaths have hit most heavily among children under five years.

Hillman Calls Conference On Crisis Caused By Far Eastern Situation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Efforts to minimize the impact of the Far Eastern crisis on the nation's silk industry and its 175,000 employees will be started today at a conference called by Sidney Hillman, associate director general of the office of production management.

Because of restrictions on imports from Japan, Hillman said it was expected that virtually all silk for civilian use would be shut off soon to conserve supplies for military use. He added that the jobs of thousands of workers were imperiled.

The meeting of defense officials with representatives of the silk industry and its labor force was called, Hillman said, at the request of Emil Rieve, president of the C.I.O. Textile Workers Union of America.

It will study the problem of switching the industry's operations to other textiles, using other fibers for such vital defense needs as parachutes and bags for powder.

Governor James Vetoes Measure

Disapproves Bill To Make Internal Department Independent Of Budgetary Control

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—Gov. Arthur H. James has vetoed a bill making the Department of Internal Affairs independent of budgetary control by the governor.

Governor James, said he already has approved a bill granting the secretary of internal affairs "substantially the same general independent powers as are now enjoyed by the auditor general, state treasurer and the management of their respective departments."

The bill would have relieved the secretary of internal affairs from the budgetary control the governor now exercises over the department and of the duty of making periodic reports to the Department of Property of Supplies, stating the destination of department cars and names of drivers.

"While it is true the secretary of internal affairs is an elected and not an appointive officer," the chief executive said, "he certainly stands in no different position than the department heads appointed by the governor insofar as expenditures of state funds is concerned."

Employment Office, Newly Modernized, Handling Rush Jobs

The newly renovated office of the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation in the Citizens Bank building itself spells convenience and efficiency.

Old interview booths have been replaced by more up-to-date desks, and the entire interior has undergone a re-decorating job.

The second floor office at Washington and Mill streets, which today handles a much larger volume of job seekers daily because of the industrial upswing, provides separate sections for employment and unemployment compensation activities. The bulk of calls are for workers "at once."

Headquarters of District No. 5, in charge of Acting District Manager Raymond J. Latchaw, are apart from the New Castle branch office, in charge of Acting Manager John Velker. The woman's employment section is in charge of Mrs. Wilda K. Patterson.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

PASTURE HAS PLACE IN BEEF CATTLE FEEDING

More beef cattle feeders are using grass in their feeding program this year than ever before in Pennsylvania.

With the pasture improvement program in effect, more acreage of pasture is available and feeders are utilizing the grass for their beef cattle. Since feeders try to get gains on their cattle at low cost and utilize homegrown feeds as much as possible, they find that they can use pastures to advantage.

Many feeders in Pennsylvania purchased feeder calves last fall or winter, roughed them through the winter on silage or silage and hay, and turned on pasture in May. In a number of cases these steers are being fed grain while on pasture with the expectation of marketing in the fall. Others are getting only grass and will go into the feed lot or get grain when the pastures become short as is usually the case in late July or August.

Cattle on good pasture now should carry good grass fat when put in the feed lot and will respond rapidly to grain feeding. With normal gains they should be ready for market in early winter.

Pastures this summer are holding up longer than usual because of the summer rains, and the need for extra grain or the time to put in dry lot or on full feed on pasture is not evident as yet. However, the feeder who wants to get on an early market must start grain feeding earlier than the one who plans to sell on a later market. This means feeding grain to cattle on pasture or in the dry lot.

Corn is the principal grain used for feeding on pasture. The corn must be coarsely ground for best results and supplemented with a protein feed, such as linseed oil meal, cottonseed meal, or soybean meal, or a mixture of those feeds.

TURKEY BITS HELP TO CONTROL CANNIBALISM

This is the third season that turkey growers are using turkey bits as anti-picking devices.

These bits are of two types: the type made especially for turkeys and the hog ring used for this purpose.

The bit is placed through the turkey's nostrils, which keep it in place and then passes thru the turkey's mouth. This bit of metal that is continually held in the turkey's mouth prevents it from closing its mouth tight enough to pick feathers. When first placed in the bird's mouth it may interfere with eating for a day or two. After that the bird does not seem to suffer any discomfort and will eat and develop normally.

These bits can be placed after the poults are 10 to 12 weeks old.

when they start to grow their second set of feathers. The bits will protect the pin feathers as they grow out of the skin, and the turkeys should have good plumage conditions when ready for market.

If hog rings are used, the largest size is recommended. Both the round and triangular types of rings have been used satisfactorily by growers. With the round hog rings, the splice joint or union can be placed on the side of the upper beak. With the triangular type the joint when clinched is in the mouth. Each hog ring should be examined and the rough edges at the splice joint filed off so that there will be no sharp edges to cut the membranes of the turkey's mouth. The triangular rings swing freely in the turkey's mouth and keep the cutting edges of the beak worn down except at the tip.

GROWING COLT NEEDS GRAIN FOR BEST GAIN

Growth is most rapid and most economically made while the colts are young. Therefore, it pays to feed some grain regularly from the time the colts are old enough to eat until they are past 12 months of age.

The amount and kind of grain to feed will be determined by the condition of the colts. During the summer the colts are yearlings, the amount of grain fed will depend upon the pasture available. With good grazing on pastures that supply plenty of feed, no grain or hay need be fed. If pastures are not first class, some grain will have to be fed for best growth of the colts.

Four parts of oats and one part of bran by weight, fed at the rate of a pound or one and a quarter pounds per 100 pounds live weight, will make a good feed at this time. If the colt needs a little fattening, an ear or two of corn added to the ration will be valuable. Thriftiness and good growth of frame in a colt are dependent on the feed the first couple years of a colt's life.

AVOID AUGUST DROP IN MILK PRODUCTION

Too often flies are blamed for the drop in milk production which occurs during August. Flies are an annoyance but experimental evidence has shown that flies do not cause very much of a drop in milk flow.

The main reasons for milk decline during the hot summer months are high humidity, hot weather and lack of feed. If a cow is uncomfortable because of hot weather conditions she is inclined to hustle around for feed even though it is available in pasture form.

Here are suggestions for cow comfort and more milk production during August:

1. Cows like a cool shady place to lie down and rest. If none is available bring them into the barn during the heat of the day. A fan to circulate the air while cows are in the barn is a great help. Darkening of the windows will make the barn more comfortable.
2. Have plenty of fresh water available at all times.
3. Supplement short pastures with hay, silage or green feed.
4. Feed grain to the higher producing cows.

Cow comfort is just as important during the hot summer months as during the cold winter.

CLIMATE, CULTURE AND SOIL AFFECT TOMATOES

Sudden dropping of blossoms, particularly in the first clusters, accompanied or followed by rank growth of vines, has been experienced by tomato growers. High temperatures and dry weather prevailing during a few weeks following the planting period are responsible for the dropping of blossoms.

Abundant rainfall following the dry period produced rank vine growth, a condition showing up most where large amounts of nitrogen fertilizer were applied before planting. The hot, dry weather made this nitrogen available for plant use as soon as wet weather came.

Least damage has occurred where thick-stemmed, short, well-hardened plants were set deep, water was applied, and liberal amounts of phosphorus were applied either in the row or as a plant starter in the transplanting water.

Early weeding and careful picking will influence prospects. Wide space between rows will result in less injury by pickers to the vines. Picking once a week is sufficient. Tomatoes 90 to 100 per cent red weigh more and bring a higher price.

SOLUTION SUGGESTED FOR JELLY AND JAM PROBLEMS

Glasses of clear jelly and thick jam cooling on the pantry shelf are a familiar sight at this time of year. However, occasionally there is a batch of jelly that looks cloudy, that does not firm, that turns into a dummy mass or that has crystals all through it. Mrs. Julia Taylor, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county, offers an explanation for these jelly problems.

Cloudy jelly is caused by improper straining after the juice twice will help to make the jelly clear. Use a cotton flannel bag with the nap side in or two or three thicknesses of good quality cheese cloth, or a sugar bag. For the first straining, let the juice drip and then squeeze the bag. But for the second straining use a fresh bag wrung out in hot water and do not squeeze.

When the sirup does not form jelly, there are a number of different explanations. The fruit itself may not have the proper balance of pectin, acid and mineral salts that must be present for jelly formation. To make sure there is enough pectin and acid present, it is best to use a mixture of ripe and slightly under-ripe fruit, Mrs. Taylor suggests.

When pectin is lacking in the fruit, it can be added in the form of a commercial or homemade pectin extract. Fruits, such as strawberries and cherries, must always have pectin added if they are to be used for jelly.

Another reason for the failure of the sirup to form jelly is the use of too much water in extracting the juice. This excessive water dilutes the juice, so there is not enough pectin in proportion to the sugar.

Jelly will become soft and runny if it is taken off the stove before it gives the jelly test.

The crystals that form in grape jelly are cream of tartar—harmless but unpleasantly gritty. They can be prevented almost entirely by letting the juice stand in a cold place overnight, then dipping it out of the container carefully and re-straining before making it into jelly.

The sugar crystals in other kinds of jelly are the result of too much sugar or too little acid, or the crystals may form if the sirup is overcooked or when the glasses stand around for some time before they are sealed.

month, Thursday evening at the B. P. W. cottage at Lakewood.

During business, a report was heard from Angeline Castrucci, a local delegate to the national convention of the A. S. A. held at Chicago, recently. Florence Davis, of Sheridan avenue, was elected as national corresponding secretary of the A. S. A.

An informal time followed, and the members enjoyed several pastimes. Classes for the group will resume next week. It was announced, with Myrtle Lord, in charge. The next meeting will be announced.

CLIMATE, CULTURE AND SOIL AFFECT TOMATOES

Sudden dropping of blossoms, particularly in the first clusters, accompanied or followed by rank growth of vines, has been experienced by tomato growers. High temperatures and dry weather prevailing during a few weeks following the planting period are responsible for the dropping of blossoms.

Abundant rainfall following the dry period produced rank vine growth, a condition showing up most where large amounts of nitrogen fertilizer were applied before planting. The hot, dry weather made this nitrogen available for plant use as soon as wet weather came.

Least damage has occurred where thick-stemmed, short, well-hardened plants were set deep, water was applied, and liberal amounts of phosphorus were applied either in the row or as a plant starter in the transplanting water.

Early weeding and careful picking will influence prospects. Wide space between rows will result in less injury by pickers to the vines. Picking once a week is sufficient. Tomatoes 90 to 100 per cent red weigh more and bring a higher price.

SOLUTION SUGGESTED FOR JELLY AND JAM PROBLEMS

Glasses of clear jelly and thick jam cooling on the pantry shelf are a familiar sight at this time of year. However, occasionally there is a batch of jelly that looks cloudy, that does not firm, that turns into a dummy mass or that has crystals all through it. Mrs. Julia Taylor, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county, offers an explanation for these jelly problems.

Cloudy jelly is caused by improper straining after the juice twice will help to make the jelly clear. Use a cotton flannel bag with the nap side in or two or three thicknesses of good quality cheese cloth, or a sugar bag. For the first straining, let the juice drip and then squeeze the bag. But for the second straining use a fresh bag wrung out in hot water and do not squeeze.

When the sirup does not form jelly, there are a number of different explanations. The fruit itself may not have the proper balance of pectin, acid and mineral salts that must be present for jelly formation. To make sure there is enough pectin and acid present, it is best to use a mixture of ripe and slightly under-ripe fruit, Mrs. Taylor suggests.

When pectin is lacking in the fruit, it can be added in the form of a commercial or homemade pectin extract. Fruits, such as strawberries and cherries, must always have pectin added if they are to be used for jelly.

Another reason for the failure of the sirup to form jelly is the use of too much water in extracting the juice. This excessive water dilutes the juice, so there is not enough pectin in proportion to the sugar.

Jelly will become soft and runny if it is taken off the stove before it gives the jelly test.

The crystals that form in grape jelly are cream of tartar—harmless but unpleasantly gritty. They can be prevented almost entirely by letting the juice stand in a cold place overnight, then dipping it out of the

Dr. Samuel Dodds Writes Biography

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, Aug. 1. — Local friends of Dr. Samuel Dodds of Prospect, Pa., for many years a member of Grove City college faculty, have received from his son, President Harold W. Dodds, of Princeton university, copies of the former's autobiography, written at the request of his sons.

Of particular interest to former students of Doctor Dodds are the chapters covering his years in Grove City and his long association with the college.

Lawn mowing should cease during hot dry spells until the grass begins to grow rapidly again. The lawn will appear much better if the grass is not cut lower than one and one-half inches high all summer.

Passengers Tell Of Experiences

Those Aboard "Marooned" Japanese Steamer Tell
Of Feelings

STEAMER DELAYS DOCKING WEEK

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Passengers who were "marooned" for almost a week aboard the Japanese liner Tatuta Maru described their experiences vividly and pungently, late Thursday.

Said Mrs. Frances Rosso, former Denver socialite and wife of the Italian ambassador to Moscow:

"I felt like a human tennis ball. It was my second attempt to rejoin by husband in Italy. For the past week I've been on the verge of despair. I felt my ill-luck was still dogging me and that the Tatuta would surely put back to Japan."

Wilhelm Heineberg, Belgian tea merchant, and his bride, blonde Bianca Heineberg, Viennese refugee, said:

"It was as though we were lost souls aboard some doomed ghost ship, wandering aimlessly in the fog. We began to lose hope of ever seeing land again."

Father Gabriel Barrios, Franciscan priest en route home to Spain from the Philippines:

Have Prayer Meetings
"I and other missionaries held prayer meetings, hoping the passengers would find some solace. I had a tiny compass in my stateroom, that told us of the ship's movements when the officers would not talk."

A. R. Lusey, American newspaperman:

"We would hand in messages, hoping that they would be radioed, but they constantly came back marked 'not accepted for transmission.' The chief radioman, whom I've known for 18 years, said he was acting on instructions from Tokyo."

"When it looked as though the ship was going back to Tokyo, twenty-five of us got together to petition the captain to give us a life-boat which we could navigate to shore. We planned to steal a boat if our petition was refused."

Leo Sirota, Austrian concert pianist:

"I played endlessly in the lounge, to help quiet the passengers. I hope they found comfort in the works of the great masters."

Mrs. Christian Diamantopoulos, wife of the Greek minister to Moscow:

"The suspense of the last six days was terrible."

Desmond Tuffnel, Irish naval attaché of the British Legation in Tokyo, en route back to London for active duty with the royal navy:

"Many of us were wrathful over the enforced six-day cruise to nowhere. The delay was costly for some of us; now I'll have to take a clipper or a bomber to England."

"When the liner President Pierce passed us, I semaphored and asked her to take us off to no avail."

Other passengers said Tuffnel had demanded unsuccessfully of the Japanese officers to know whether the passengers were being held prisoners.

Once Prosperous Lumbering Town Being Abandoned

(International News Service)
TOWANDA, Pa., Aug. 1.—Laquin, once a prosperous lumbering center with the second largest industrial payroll in Bradford county, became a "ghost" town Thursday.

The community postoffice, operated for the past five years in a private garage, was ordered closed by the government. The population has dwindled from 2,000 to only two families, and both of them are preparing to move.

Abandonment of the CCG camp at Laquin recently wiped out the scant business done by the postoffice. Only six dwellings and remains of the school are still standing in the village.

Laquin was established by the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Co. in 1902 when it started to "take timber from the vast forests in this section."

Criminal Record Trips Up Robber, Given Stiff Term

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, August 1.—Sylvester Barton's criminal record and Judge Thomas M. Marshall caught up with him today, even though Barton's latest robbery victims were willing to get him a job and help him "go straight."

Barton, of Lockport, N. Y., pleaded guilty to breaking into the home of G. Wible and stealing $700 in jewelry and silverware. Barton pleaded that "they (the Wibles) are willing to help me if I'm put on probation."

Judge Marshall looked at Barton's record of 18 previous criminal prosecutions and declared: "I'll make it 3½ to 10 years."

NON-SINKABLE BOAT
SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Although the federal patent office says it can't be done, 82-year-old A. B. Nehiros has built a boat which he claims will neither sink nor tip over. The craft is 12 feet long and 11 feet 8 inches wide and has a cruising speed of six miles per hour with its three-horse-powered outboard motor. It cost $25 to build. When Nehiros applied for a patent, he was told that no patents ever had been issued for a craft of that type.

Chinese Believe Japan Will Attack Siberia

PEIPING, China, Aug. 1.—The conviction that Japan is preparing for a great assault on Soviet Siberia, if and when the red armies in the west are smashed by Adolf Hitler's legions, is growing in informed Chinese circles in this north China observation post.

Japanese in a position to know Tokio's plans say they have heard that the Japanese command is gathering in Manchukuo and north China forces which eventually will total 2,000,000 men and 5000 planes, for a determined effort to break Russian power in the Far East for good.

Would Stake Existence

Chinese, some of whom work in close liaison with the Japanese rulers of north China, express firm belief that Japan is preparing to stake her national existence on a drive into the Russian Far East when the opportune time comes.

They say their Japanese contacts are boasting that Japan is making ready to hurl the largest army the empire ever has assembled into such an attack and that the occupation of French Indo-China is merely a side issue.

Russian Forces Strong

(Until recently Japan has had only about 300,000 men in Manchukuo, adjacent to Siberia, while the Far Eastern red army has been estimated at some 30 divisions, perhaps 500,000 men, with strong air forces and self-sufficiency in supply of food and munitions.)

(Hitherto the strength of the Russian Siberian forces has kept Japanese ambitions in that area in check, according to military experts.)

Adopted At Parley

From these Chinese and Japanese sources this picture of Tokio's alleged program is pieced together:

The plan for the Siberian attack was adopted by the imperial conference in Tokio July 2. At that time it was announced that a decision of far-reaching importance had been reached, but its direction was not disclosed.

The conference was strongly influenced by the octogenarian Mitsu-ru Toyama, chief of Japan's unofficial super-patriots, and other leaders of powerful secret societies who supported the Siberian project.

Says U. S. Will Stay Out

They were said to have contended that the United States and Britain would take no action to hamper a drive against Communist Russia.

Moreover a Japanese move into Siberia would forestall a further German advance eastward challenging Japan's dominance in East Asia and would realize the 50-year-old dream of the Japanese army of planting the Rising Sun over eastern Siberia, perhaps as far west as Lake Baikal.

The Japanese army for two generations has nourished ambitions for continental expansion, whereas the navy is the exponent of expansion to the south.

S.W.O.C. Meeting On August 14 On "Little Steel"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1.—President of all locals in plants of Republic Steel, Inland Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem Steel were ordered today to meet in Pittsburgh August 14, the CIO-Steel Workers organizing committee announced.

David J. McDonald, SWOC secretary-treasurer, estimated that approximately 65 local union presidents representing 150,000 workers, would be present. The meeting will last two days.

McDonald pointed out that the "policies of great importance" to be planned during the conference would deal with recent developments in the "little steel" segment of the industry—the last major section of steel not yet under SWOC contract.

Texas Governor's Daughter Marries

About 3000 Texans Gather For Ceremony—Give Greeting To Couple

(International News Service)

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wrather, Jr. were headed eastward today to try and lose themselves in the canyons of New York City following their marriage in the executive mansion in Austin last night in the most public wedding Texas has ever known.

Mrs. Wrather until last night was Molly O'Daniel, vivacious and popular daughter of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, and the entire state of Texas was invited by the governor to join in the wedding festivities.

Perhaps fortunately for the newlyweds, only some 3,000 Texans accepted the governor's invitation to help Molly and Wrather, young Tyler oilman, take the leap into matrimony, but these 3,000 did their best to give the youngsters a rousing sendoff.

Newspapermen, as well as the well represented public, were prevented from witnessing the actual ceremony, but were assured immediately afterwards by the participants that everything went off "without a hitch."

When the ceremony had been completed, the bridal couple appeared outside on a huge platform constructed for the occasion at one side of the governor's mansion. They bowed and waved to the crowd, then helped each other slice a giant wedding cake—one of a dozen supplied for the party. Jack and Molly fed each other some of the cake, tossed pieces out to the throng, embraced and then retreated indoors. Shortly afterward they departed in a shower of rice on a honeymoon trip which will take them first to New York, then to Washington where O'Daniel will be sworn in on Monday as senator, thence to a Canadian retreat and finally to California.

The party carried on without the newlyweds, however. Two chefs and five women dressed as maids paraded out into the crowd with the rest of the wedding cakes, cut the cakes into small pieces and tossed the tidbits to thousands of reaching hands.

Also provided for the celebrants was soda water and five barrels of fruit punch.

Finally, the mansion doors were thrown open and such of the crowd as could be squeezed in went into the house to eat more wedding cake.

The expensive carpeting of the mansion suffered some under the heavy traffic, but no one seemed to mind.

Compensation Law Amendment Is Signed By James

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—A far-reaching amendment to the state workmen's compensation laws today became law when Gov. Arthur H. James signed the Dent bill passed by the 1941 legislature.

The measure removes from the state rating bureau—a group composed of representatives of the insurance commissioner, workmen's compensation board and private insurance companies—the right to "promulgate" classification of risks, underwriting rules, premium rates and scheduled merit rating plans for the insurance of employers and employees under the workmen's compensation act.

It provides instead that the rating bureau shall henceforth only "propose" them and file them with the insurance commissioner, who in turn is authorized to modify, amend or approve them.

Appeals from the commissioner's rulings may be made to the Dauphin county common pleas court and to the state superior court. The act is effective immediately.

There have been widespread objections to the present system of establishing insurance rates, on the grounds that the state rating bureau is controlled by private insurance companies, due to the fact that each is permitted one representative on the board, thus giving them numerical superiority over the state's two representatives.

House Democrats wrote in an amendment to the bill, which was sponsored by Sen. John H. Dent (D) Westmoreland, giving the state workmen's insurance fund control over insurance rates, but the senate refused to accept the provision and a conference committee deleted it.

Silk Industry In United States Will Be Hit Hard

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Reporting that the present silk stocks of the nation will last only one month, Emil Rieve, president of the CIO textile workers union, today told a conference of national defense leaders and union officials that the current Japanese-American "economic war" means the end of the silk industry in the United States "for all time."

Rieve, declaring that Japan will never again regain its silk market in this country, presented a comprehensive plan to the conference to take care of the 175,000 workers in U. S. silk mills who are being thrown out of work because silk imports have been cut off from Nippon.

More than three score representatives of the silk industry, the A. P. of L. silk workers' union and officials of the OPM, OPACS, army and navy, attended the conference, which was called by OPM Labor Chieftain Sidney Hillman to see what could be done to find employment for the silk workers thrown into idleness.

Predict Effort To Increase Tax Bill In Senate

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Congressional leaders predicted that when the new $3,500,000,000 tax bill reaches the Senate an administration effort will be made to increase it by a billion dollars or more.

The prediction came as the House continued debate on the record-high revenue measure under a "tag" rule which drastically curtails the possibility of the bill being altered on the floor.

Leaders agreed to bring the matter to a final vote Monday, after which the Senate finance committee, under its new chairman, Sen. George (D) Ga., will take it over.

During these hearings, it was predicted, the treasury will ask that the measure be changed so as to raise even more vitally needed federal revenue.

Backs for this plea, congressmen said, will be a statement that when the treasury set $3,500,000,000 as the new tax goal some three months ago, defense expenditures were not nearly so high as they are now.

At that time Treasury Secretary Morgenthau declared that he wished to finance two-thirds of total government spending out of taxes and one-third by borrowing.

Federal expenses have now increased so vastly, it was pointed out, that in order to do this some $4,500,000,000 or more will have to be raised in additional taxation.

SENATE VOTE ON DRAFT EXTENSION BILL MEETS DELAY

vote on the measure until next week. Senate Democratic Leader Barkley, asserting that "we will stand by our bill," ordered a show-down on the Taft compromise, and other modifying proposals.

Taft Proposal
The substitute of Senator Taft (R), Ohio, would increase the draftee training period from 12 to 18 months, limit the size of the peace-time army to 2,000,000 men, and give a bonus of $200 to each selectee, guardsmen and reservist who enlists in the regular army after a year's training.

Democratic senators who have not yet been completely won over to voting for retaining the selectees, guardsmen and reservists indefinitely in service during the emergency, are beginning to take serious note of Taft's plan. It already has the support of almost the entire Republican bloc, and Democratic non-interventionists.

Taft, meanwhile, is considering adding a new section to his amendment which would place a time limit on the period the selectees could be kept in service, regardless of the duration of the emergency.

Fight Develops
Administration leaders are confident that in the end the Taft substitute will be defeated, but they admitted that they have more of a fight on their hands than first expected.

Speaking for the administration forces, Senator Pepper (D), Fla., warned that the Taft compromise would wreck the war department's program for a tightly-knit, and well-trained army to carry the nation through the emergency.

"This is no time to be considering amendments to the bill that will wreck the army's plans," Pepper said. "The time has passed when we can safely trifle with the security of the country."

Taft, on the other hand, declared that his bill will serve the needs of the country during peace-time, and the present emergency. He asserted that "the only excuse for the administration's bill would be to build up an army to fight on foreign soil."

May Yield Somewhat
Administration leaders, including Senator Thomas (D), Utah, piloting the bill in the Senate, were con-

German Authorities Say 10,000 Killed And 35,000 Taken Prisoner

(International News Service)

Ten thousand Soviet troops were killed and 35,000 taken prisoner, it was said. "Inestimable" booty, including 24 field guns, were taken.

The battlefield presented a scene of "gruesome chaos," it was said, being strewn with the bodies of dead and wrecked war materials of all kinds.

All attempts by Soviet divisions trapped in a sack northeast of Smolensk to escape have been repulsed with heavy losses, it was announced. Earlier, military spokesmen said that German troops had driven red forces from fortified positions and crossed the lower Dniester river.

War Department Given Criticism

Senator Vandenberg Demands Statement Concerning Drafts Be Withdrawn

By ROBERT A. MCGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The War Department was severely criticized in the Senate Thursday for stating that "80 per cent" of the draftees favor pending legislation extending their service, when, it was alleged, the department "refuses the men the right to speak for themselves."

The criticism was voiced by Sens. Vandenberg (R) Mich., and Tobey (R) N. H., the latter producing a telegram in which it was asserted that the department recently issued regulations forbidding selectees to express opinions on whether they should be retained beyond the year for which they were originally drafted.

As the Senate continued debate on a bill authorizing retention for the duration of the emergency, Vandenberg took the floor and demanded that the department withdraw its claim that four out of five draftees want to remain in service.

RELIC OF GOLD RUSH DAYS ON EXHIBITION

SEATTLE, Wash.—New Yorkers will soon see an old highwheeled wooden express wagon that once hauled Alaska gold from the waterfront here to the government assay office in the day of '98.

The wagon will be displayed by the Railway Express Agency, which found it in a warehouse where it had been stored and forgotten for 17 years.

Diversification Urged In Holding Of Stocks In Babson's Discussion

By ROGER W. BABSON

(Copyright—1941—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., August 1.

—Investors of the United States and of Canada are beginning to wonder whether they should begin to diversify by buying

"peace" stocks.

Obviously, the answer largely depends upon the duration of the war and the kind of "peace"

which comes. If it is an armed peace, then the war industries

present war industries will continue prosperous for some time; but if it is a real peace, then look out for terrific industrial crashes!

War Industries

Probably the first to be hit would be the aircraft manufacturers. The largest steel companies, such as U.

S. Steel and Bethlehem, and large textile manufacturers, such as

American Woolen and Pacific Mills, may also suffer. Manufacturers of munitions, and especially the big machine-tool people and the anthracite coal producers, expect to get a bump. As to what will happen to retail trade is very debatable.

Priorities and price fixing will not prevent a shortage of such goods;

but may not such shortage make people then scramble to buy them or something else?

Foundry. The same may apply to shipbuilding. Reading the newspapers, one would think that 50 per cent of United States industrial energy is given to war work. Yet, statistics show that only about 10 per cent is so engaged. What the Canadian figure is, I do not know.

Peace Industries

On the other hand, it seems as if it would keep all the window-glass manufacturers of the world busy for years to re-glass Europe and Great Britain! The movies should also do a great business after the war. The air-transportation lines should do better than ever, while the chemicals, such as du Pont, Eastman,

Union Carbide, Monsanto, American

Cyanamid, etc., should do well. Some bankers are also recommending the electrical-equipment and food industries as good peace stocks; but I am not too sure.

As to what will happen to the automobile industry—this is anyone's guess. After the war, the industry will lose war business and increase pleasure-car sales; but labor and other factors may interfere.

There is also much disagreement as to how peace will affect our export business in the long-run. It may hurt it. There, however, is sure to be a great boom in exports during the reconstruction period. Our government is now storing food to offer starving Europe at the psychological moment when such an offer will help in forcing Hitler to quit.

Why Gamble?

But why try to decide how long

World War II is to last or what will be the peace terms? We know that God still rules this old earth and that the Hitler group will be put out of business. All nations are sure to learn something good from the conflict and it will be a better world in which to live. Hence, "investing-as-usual" may be the best policy.

NORTH TROY, Vt., Aug. 1.—By special train and automobile, Canadian and American dignitaries arrived today to participate in the dedication of an $8,000,000 oil pipe line running 236 miles from Portland, Me., to Montreal.

Expected to be in full operation by December 1, the pipe line will save from 10 to 12 days in the delivery of crude oil from southern ports to Canada.

Representing the United States at the dedication was Mayor Fiorello

LaGuardia of New York City, national civilian defense director, and the governors of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

A special train from Montreal brought most of the cabinet members of the Quebec and Ontario provincial governments and a host of military, naval and civilian nota-

Highlight of the ceremony near the Canadian-American boundary line was the wedding of the pipe by

Mayor LaGuardia and a representative of Prime Minister Mackenzie

King of Canada. Two bands—one

American and a Canadian—pro-cabins with the recreational areas which may be rented for a limited number of days not exceeding 15.

Demands for these cabins have been so great that all have been rented for the entire summer season.

The possibilities for camping, nature study, and exploration of the state forests are so great that many visitors return year after year seeking out new grounds, never covering the same areas twice. The state forests afford the best scenery and the best camp grounds and are easily reached from the main highways. The visitor of moderate means is not required to finance an expensive western or northern trip, but may enjoy the advantage of some scenic portions of Pennsylv-

There are now 3401 permanent camp sites on the state forests leased by citizens of Pennsylvania

camp sites goes about one-fourth acre of land. This means that more than 800 acres of the state forests are leased to campers, hunters, fishermen and other people who enjoy the outdoors in the forests of the commonwealth.

Dodgers Rally, Defeat Cards

Brooklyn Cuts Down Lead Of Red Birds; Pirates Trip Braves

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Fighters who get up off the floor and ball clubs that battle back when the breaks go against them are tough to bet against.

And that's why we'd hesitate to bet against the Dodgers although they still are two games down to the Cardinals today and despite the fact that Whitlow Wyatt, their ace pitcher, apparently is in need of a prolonged rest.

Dodgers Ahead

Wyatt hasn't won a game since he worked in the all-star affair July 8. In fact, he dropped four straight in every one of which he weakened at the end. He might have lost another yesterday had not the Dodgers gallantly rallied to take the Cardinals, 9-5.

Wyatt was chased in the third and Wicker came in to stop the Red Birds after they had tied the score and from then on old Freddy Fitzsimmons pitched heroically to stave off defeat and was credited with the decision.

We liked the way the Dodgers tore into five Cardinal pitchers for 15 hits including homers by Camilli, Riggs and Waddell. That showed they still pack plenty of punch as well as fighting spirit.

The Cardinal pitching has been nothing to rave about and Billy Southworth has been tossing them in there in carload lots. However, he seems to be better off for relief pitchers than is Leo Durocher, who may or may not have picked up a bargain in the irascible Johnny Allen.

Pirates Trip Braves

Meanwhile the Pirates who have by no means abandoned their pennant aspirations topped the Braves, 9-8 while the Reds rallied in the ninth to beat the Giants, 6-5, when Big Walter Brown wilted in the heat. The Giants seem to be slipping fast and the chances are they will do well to head the second division.

The Phils got a six hitter from Rookie Johnny Podgajny to shock the Cubs, 7-2.

And over in the other circuit the Yankees ran their lead to 12 games over the idle Indians by taking a pair from the woebegone Tigers, 6-3, in 13 heats and 5-0 in eight, the second being halted by darkness.

The chief interest in watching the Yanks these days seem to be in the battle for home run honors and runs batted in between Charley Keller and Joe DiMaggio.

Charley hit his 26th homer to win the first game and Joe hit his 25th and a single to win the second and incidentally to run his new hitting streak through 14 games. Joe now has missed hitting only in one of his last 71 games.

Browns-Red Sox Split

The Browns and Red Sox split a pair; the Browns stung a six-run rally in the ninth to take the opener, 16-11, and the Red Sox taking the nightcap 4-1. Cullenbine and Williams each hit homers with the bases loaded in the first game.

And Connie Mack's surprising Athletics moved into the first division by topping the White Sox 9-2, and in this game, too, there was a homer with the bases loaded by Benny McCoy.

Cleveland and Washington were rained out in the nation's capital.

What Cleveland Indians Need Most

(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Perhaps President Alva Bradley, Vice President C. C. Slapnicka and Manager Roger Peckinpaugh have been so busy staying alert to keep down revolutions that they haven't thought of it so I will pass on to them something that just came to me while looking around for somebody's business to mind. What they will have to do next season, if they still want to win a pennant one of these years, is dismantle the Cleveland Indians, re-assort the odds and ends to cull out pieces that don't seem to fit and rebuild the whole thing around Bob Feller.

The wisdom of this must be apparent. Feller can win 30 or 40 games practically on his own. All he asks generally is a run or two and in fairness to them, he must be said that they will let him have that as long as he doesn't make a habit of depending on them for too much help, but being the kind of pitcher he is, Feller deserves to be in slightly more cooperative surroundings. Then he could really blossom out.

Some of the Indians are great. They play the game up to the hilt all the way. But a few of them wouldn't be worth a dime a dozen on the open market because of their temperament. It wouldn't be a league-rocking surprise if the shake-up that must follow this season causes half a dozen of them to be cut loose and let go to any brave and hardy club willing to accept the gamble.

The problem will be, of course, to figure out how to use players who are used so delicately that they couldn't play for Oscar Vitt because he hollered too much and won't play for Peckinpaugh because he sedately sits most of the time preoccupied with a vast silence.

Dodgers Acquire Rookie Players From Nashville

Tom Tatum, Hard-Hitting Outfielder And Drake Right-Hand Hurler Bought

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—With newly-acquired Pitcher Johnny Allen slated to face the Chicago Cubs today, two young players from the Nashville Vols were to join the Brooklyn Dodgers.

They are Tom Tatum, heavy-hitting outfielder, and Tom Drake, 26-year-old right handed pitcher, who were purchased by the Dodgers for $35,000 and the contract of Pitcher Vito Tamulis. The 23-year-old Tatum, a former Detroit Tigers' farm hand freed by Judge Landis last year, has been hitting 347 for Nashville and may start in center field for Brooklyn today. In that event Pete Reiser would switch to right field. Drake, who also has seen action with Cleveland, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Atlanta and New Orleans, has won 10 and lost 4 for the Vols.

Release of Catcher Angelo Guiland to Montreal also was announced by the Dodgers.

Wampum-Ellwood Shoot Saturday

The regular weekly trapshoot of the Ellwood and Wampum Rod and Gun club will be held at the Wampum-Ellwood range on Saturday. All trapshooters in the county are invited to attend. It was announced by W. H. Grinnen, president of the club today.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Sports shorties scrambled together:

Are Brooklyn Dodger fans as quiet as the press would have you believe? Draw your own conclusion after reading the following incident reported by Gladwin Hill: "Certain parishioners of a Brooklyn church were given $1 apiece by their pastor to invest and return to the church. They used the money to bet on the Brooklyn Dodgers!"

Baseball scribes are dusting off the record books diligently to find out if any other major leaguer ever copped five verdicts in nine days. Ernie White, the St. Louis Cardinals' left-handed wizard, posted the mark Wednesday. Bob Zupke, who just got out of a muddle engineered the football huddle.

George Abrams has convinced the pugilistic world that he has the Indian sign on Billy Soose. If and when the pair meets again, the bookies will have the Farrell mitter on the short end. American Association teams end their scramble on Sunday, September 7. No triple plays have been recorded in the majors so far this semester.

You've read it time and again that Cleveland's infield is second to none in the big show, particularly in speed. Figures, however, show that the New York Yankees have checked off 107 double plays compared to 88 for the Indians. In hitting, the Yanks' infielders get the bow. Montreal of the International is the only aggregation, among up-pety loops, to register a triple killing this season.

Slovaks Defeat West Side 7-2

Slovaks Have Two Big Innings In City League Game At Flats Field

Two big innings, the first and second, gave the Slovaks six of their seven runs last night at the Flats field and enough to defeat the West Side A. C. team, 7 to 2.

Prybyski and Mehlich outpitched Scotty Morrison and Picato to gain the decision. Only two extra-base knocks were recorded—a triple by Thomas and a double by Joey Danish.

The Slovaks will play the West Side on Monday night in the game that the commissioners ordered rescheduled at the Lee Avenue field, and tonight will meet the Elders at the Flats field in a postponed league game.

Marva Will Seek Temporary Alimony From Champion Joe

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis' estranged wife, the former Marva Trotter, prepared to go to court today to ask for temporary alimony pending hearing of her divorce complaint.

Counsel for Mrs. Louis said she would ask for "a substantial sum" as the result of her failure to reach a property settlement with the champion, whose property holdings in Detroit and Chicago she valued at $800,000. She also estimated the Brown Bomber's average annual earnings at $250,000.

William Temple, attorney for Louis, said the move for temporary alimony would be opposed.

NO GAME PLAYED.

The Croton-Ryantown teams did not play a city league game last night at Croton field, the Ryantown team only having seven players show up, it was announced by Manager Hop Colaluca.

Cleveland School System Initiates
Spanish Classes

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND — Special interest groups in Cleveland schools include a conversational class in Spanish in which 21 children are enrolled for sessions three times a week.

It is the first Spanish class in the Cleveland elementary schools, with boys and girls from the third, fourth and fifth grades getting the Latin-American atmosphere along with their work.

Mexican airs from records accompany the children in their quinary dances. They do art work with a Mexican motif and chant Latin-American folk songs.

Greet Teacher in Spanish
The pupils learn Spanish equivalents of common English words. For instance, when they leave the classroom for the day they say to their teacher, Ruth Borush, "adios la profesora," and for thanks they say "gracias."

Miss Borush said that at first there were only two periods a week but the children asked for a third period. The experiment is being watched with interest as educators have held that the best way to learn Spanish is by offering it in elementary classes when boys and girls can learn it easier. The experiment also is a means of building up goodwill with Latin America.

W.C.T.U. Picnic Is Held In Ewing Park

Five Local Unions Have Annual Meeting Thursday Afternoon

ELLWOOD CITY, August 1.—The annual picnic of the five Women's Christian Temperance Unions in this vicinity was held on Thursday afternoon in Ewing park. The luncheon was served at 12:00 to 125 members of the Hazel Dell, Wayne township, Clinton Sankey, Wurttemberg and Ellwood City groups.

Following the luncheon a program was presented. The devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Clyde Burns and the group singing was led by Mrs. Lawrence Lightfritz. The winner of the oratorical contest, Vera Ann Fleeger, gave at this time her prize winning talk which was entitled "The Fine Art of Drinking."

A white ribbon recruit service was then conducted by Mrs. Earl Cossins, president of the Beaver county organization, and Mrs. W. G. Wilkins, head of the Lawrence county groups. These babies were here dedicated to the ideals of the union; Nancy Jean Hogue, Billy Beltz, Barbara Toth and Donald Best.

A report was given by Miss Linnie Long, state secretary of the union, with reference to the membership campaign and then Mrs. Floyd Thompson introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Francis Miller, Monongahela, state field worker who spoke on the subject, "The Child in Our Midst." She developed the theme that there are more dangerous and insidious forces at work on the youth of the country than the threat or fear of foreign aggression. She asked the continued support of the W. C. T. U. to combat these dangers.

After brief statements by Mrs. Cossins and Mrs. Wilkins, the two visiting presidents, the meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Joseph Pringle.

Butler Plant Contributes $1,500 In Effort To Repair Damage By Pollution

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—Because of an accidental discharge of industrial wastes into the Connoquenessing creek near Butler, Pennsylvania, which resulted in a quite serious killing of fish and other aquatic life, the American Rolling Mill Company has voluntarily contributed $1500 to the Pennsylvania Fish Commission as a contribution towards restocking the stream, according to Charles A. French, fish commissioner.

The amicable settlement came about through cooperative action on the part of the Fish Commission and the Sanitary Water Board.

Commissioner French stated, "It is recognized that a mere money contribution cannot restore, overnight, the valuable aquatic life which has been destroyed, but it will show the desire of the company to repair insofar as it can, the great damage done to the stream." The contribution is in excess of the penal amount which would have been collected in case of a prosecution under the law.

Dr. A. H. Stewart, acting chairman of the sanitary water board, paid high tribute to the voluntary action on the part of the Rolling Mill Company, stating that it is understood the company has been for a period of at least fourteen (14) years, expending upwards of $100,000 per year in an effort to satisfactorily dispose of its wastes. In the present instance, a quantity of this waste was accidentally discharged into the stream. The company announces that it is planning additional facilities to prevent a recurrence if possible.

Dr. Stewart stated further that the Butler incident should serve to keep all industries constantly alert in the matter of preventing stream pollution at this time when emphasis is being placed upon production in the interest of national defense.

Butler City has a sewage treatment works which modifies its sewage before it is discharged into Connoquenessing creek and various other municipalities along this stream, including Evansburg, Harrisburg, Zelenople, etc., have works for treating sewage. Because of these efforts being made towards the elimination of stream pollution the Butler case took on added importance.

Butler Sanatorium May Become Cancer Hospital

By JOHN PAGET

International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—The move to open the $5,000,000 Butler sanatorium for the treatment of cancer was given new impetus today by a report stating the institution could be occupied by October 1.

Originally intended as a tuberculosis hospital, construction of the huge Butler county hospital was started in 1937 by the general state authority. But it has never been occupied.

An investigation of the hospital's facilities was authorized by Senator Leroy E. Chapman, Warren Republican and chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, who appointed Clare A. Berger, Warren, to make a survey.

"It is estimated," Berger's report stated, "that with proper speed the institution could now be placed in use October 1 and the benefits from its use be made available to sufferers."

A bill authorizing the use of the hospital for cancer treatment and research was passed by the legislature and now awaits the approval or veto of Gov. Arthur H. James. It carries a $500,000 appropriation for study and maintenance.

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of the bureau of health conservation in the health department, reiterated that there is more need for the hospital for tuberculosis treatment than for cancer study.

Berger quoted Dr. John M. Hill of the Women's Presbyterian hospital, Pittsburgh, as saying that the 550 beds for cancer treatment available at Butler were "not too great a number as anyone familiar with the disease would know."

Dr. Hill added that "a hospital directed with a view of treating tuberculosis would be well adopted for the treatment of persons suffering from cancer."

Berger reported that the institution was in good condition with the exception of the disposal plant where "some of the concrete work is badly cracked." He added that operating room tables, X-ray machines, cabinets and kitchen and workroom shelving were being installed.

"The children's building is also complete and has capacity for 50 beds and the building is so designed that it might well be used for the care of advanced cancer cases where the disease might cause disfigurement and where such cases could well be segregated," Berger said.

"The interior of all buildings presents a fine appearance although the paint trim in some places evidences shoddy workmanship," he said.

Berger declared that Dr. Hill, an authority on cancer treatment, said that most of the facilities necessary for care of the disease were installed at Butler, but that rooms for radium treatment "must be provided."

The one spot in the court house Thursday that was popular (or was it) was the county treasurer's office. It was the last day to pay county taxes at the five per cent discount and the line was practically unbroken all day long.

In addition scores paid by mail and Treasurer Wimer's mail Thursday morning looked like the week before Christmas at Santa Claus' headquarters. The late mail brought more and the last minute folks got in this morning with the checks mailed before closing time Thursday.

County taxes are now due at their face. On September 1 they go to the delinquent tax collector, not appointed as yet. Five per cent is added to the amount of the tax.
